FALL OPENING IS BEAUTIFUL SHOW RIOTOUS IN COLOR

Bewildering and Attractive Array of Season's Choicest Offerings in Local Stores

MUCH TO PLEASE MILADY SEEN IN LA CROSSE SHOPS

Merchants Present Gorgeous Show to Mark Fall Opening

THERE are as many moods in a Fall opening as in a book of poetry. The smiling person who prowls around in stores a day ahead of the opening finds an air of excitement expectancy and mystery in windows still curtained behind elegantly hung drapes of canvas, in sample shoes, unopened boxes and crowded cases. Presently all the lovely new habiliments of fall will be brought from places of partial concealment and displayed temptingly for the shopper. Then whatever her mood, one of vanity, sense, luxurious indulgence, thrift, youth or dignity, she will find the shops responsive.

"What's the style?" one asks.

"What you will," they answer.

One may persist and inquire, "What is the most fashionable color?"

"They're wearing that somewhat mysterious power behind the styles are trying to have it brown," says one merchant.

A lover of dress material will tell you "The hardest thing to get in New York is brown—it's so much in demand."

Brown! That's pleasant—it's the color of fall. Think of all the beautiful browns of fur and feathers, of dry leaves, of barks and of wet earth! And then one puts the question again, this time to a veteran saleswoman and she says cheerfully, "Most popular color? It's as uncertain as dispositions."

Apparently that's the truth for one sees coppers piled high with satin capes of dark blue, and racks hung with nondescript knee frocks, while coats are quite as likely to be blue or black as brown.

Great Variety Shown

Never was there greater opportunity to indulge one's tastes freely in the matter of clothes. If one wishes to wear a dress four inches from the floor high heels and a bangley air the shops offer the necessary commodities. If one stoops fondles herself in shorter skirts, flat heels and the frankness of youth these, too, the shops are prepared to provide.

Of course every season has its tendencies or it's more than likely there wouldn't be fashions. A woman who appears today in the ancient waist and skirt combination feels like a man in his shirt sleeves when guests arrive. The tailored two piece suit [illegible] the vogue of other years, [illegible] high shoes although the shoe merchants believe their prices are contingent upon the fluctuations of the long skirt. MAYOR DECLINES STATEMENT TODAY ON FUSION TICKET

Arriving in the city early Wednesday morning and without word of the proposed fusion ticket on which he was suggested for lieutenant-governor, Mayor Boutley Wednesday morning declined to make any statement regarding the matter.

"I have heard nothing whatever of this proposal," the mayor said, "and have no statement to make at the present."

RECORD FINE FOR MOONSHINING LEVIED AGAINST M. PATASKA

Kane Street Resident Assessed $450 by Judge Brindley for Having Still and Liquor

STILL WAS IN OPERATION WHEN THE RAIDERS ARRIVED

John McGuire Fined for Having Liquor in Rose Street Restaurant

A FINE of $450, the largest ever assessed against a householder in La Crosse for the illicit manufacture of liquor, was levied against Martin Pataska, 710 Kane street, Wednesday morning in county court by Judge Brindley.

Also it was the first time that state or federal prohibition agents ever found a still in full operation while they were raiding a place.

When the agents reached the Pataska home Tuesday afternoon, two went toward the house, two more went to a garage and two more started for the woodshed. The still was in the woodshed, full steam up and the white liquor trickling from the coil. Mrs. Pataska, the agents said, was operating the still when she saw the raiding party approach the house, she tried to throw all of the works into the alley in back of the shed. She succeeded in tossing part of the still out of the shed. When the agents entered she was pouring the moonshine on her leg, complaining of rheumatism. Her story was that they were making the moon to use as liniment.

The still was of five gallons capacity and there was 20 gallons of mash. Under the floor of the garage 10 gallons of moonshine were unearthed. As the agents were destroying the still, Pataska drove into the yard in his new automobile. He was told to appear in county court in the morning.

The Park restaurant, 801 Rose street, formerly Joseph Hahn's saloon, also was raided. John (Boots) McGuire, who has been running the restaurant while Hahn has been serving a five-months sentence imposed by Judge Fowler, was arrested when the agents found a quantity of liquor in the restaurant. McGuire was fined $300 Wednesday morning by Judge Brindley.

U. S. PLAYING INTO HANDS OF THE COAL PROFITEER—FORD

DETROIT, Mich.—Charges that the interstate commerce commission through its control of empty cars "is playing into the hands of coal profiteers under guise of regulations for the public good" were made here in a statement issued by Henry Ford from his offices in Dearborn, a suburb.

"The same interests who own the public utilities, railroads and mines are using the commission as part of their scheme to fleece the public and the scheme is so simple that nobody sees it," Mr. Ford's statement issued Wednesday continued.

"The present so-called coal crisis shows up the commission. If this commission ever was useful, it now has outlived its usefulness like the gold standard and Wall Street."

GANFIELD WON'T RUN FOR SENATE AS INDEPENDENT

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—William A. Ganfield, unsuccessful candidate in the primaries for the republican nomination for United States senator of Wisconsin, will not be an independent candidate for that office in the November election, according to a statement made public Wednesday.

He believes, however, that an independent ticket composed of representatives from both the democratic and republican parties might have a chance for success, in view of the light vote cast in the primaries.

LA CROSSE WILL GROW AS FAST AS CITIZENS PERMIT

Determination and Optimism and Hard Work Will Make a Larger City Here

LUCIUS WILSON OF CHICAGO GIVES AN IMPRESSIVE TALK

Chamber of Commerce Assembly Room Crowded

THE first of the noon luncheons of the Chamber of Commerce, held Wednesday noon, was a marked success. Practically every seat at the four tables was filled with members of the chamber, who enjoyed the splendid repast of roast chicken.

Lucius T. Wilson, president of the General Organizations company of Chicago, delivered a short but inspiring address, having as his subject "How Cities Grow."

Mr. Wilson said in part: "The average American business man is unconscious of the results of city growth, and the great benefit resulting to the city from its growth.

Growth is Shown

"During a ten year period, the average rate of growth for American cities of the 25,000 to 50,000 class, of which La Crosse is one, is 33 per cent. The down town, or central real estate values are enhanced in double proportion to the rate of increase in the cities' population.

"The growth of cities is important, if from just this standpoint, and as soon as men begin to know their town, it looks better to them. They have increased confidence in it and it begins to grow."

Here Mr. Wilson gave several illustrations of cities where investigations were made which resulted in almost unbelievable large projects being put over.

"The growth of big cities is not confined to America," continued the speaker, "but is also known in Europe. The tendency of men to concentrate is a world-wide instinct.

"But the cities along the Mississippi river have not grown normally during the last ten year period. Why? They have every advantage of location and climate.

La Crosse Falls Short

"La Crosse fell far short of its normal growth during the past ten years. During that period the population increased only four persons. This failure to achieve a normal growth has cost some group of men in this city some odd millions of dollars in enhanced real estate values alone.

"The growth of cities in America is not coming to the smaller cities, but to the already large centers of population, such as Chicago, New York and Detroit.

"It cannot be considered a good thing on the whole that the population is becoming so centralized. It would mean a greater profit for the nation if the growth should be more de-centralized — distributed more evenly among the cities of a smaller size.

"Towns grow where men want them. The location of a town cuts no figure in its growth.

How Chicago Grew

"Chicago, used as an illustration, grew because of the creative thinking of men who desired Chicago to grow. Men, not conditions, build cities.

"A city that does not grow is one that has not yet realized the value of creative thinking. That is what brings all improvements and progress to a city.

"There are projects now on foot in the city of La Crosse that will require more optimism from the people than they have ever had before, but if the projects go through, it will be a step forward toward normal growth for the city." In this regard Mr. Wilson referred to the improvement program which is being planned for the Inter-State fair.

"No American town east of the Rockies," said Mr. Wilson, "dares to plan for the future, they are afraid of it. A live town believes in tomorrow, a dead town pins its faith on yesterday.

Just as Men Will

"All towns are just exactly as the men living in them want them. It is true that if a man wants a thing bad enough in the right way, he will get it."

In passing the speaker said that the local fair association has a splendid opportunity to work for the advancement of the city.

"Land values increase the same in the country as in the city, but the only change in the situation is in the mind of the man possessing the land. When he begins to think that it is a good thing, it becomes a good thing."

In closing, Mr. Wilson emphasized the fact that the real growth of a city depended upon the amount of creative thinking done by the people of the city, and their courage in following their ideas once promoted.

CLASH OVER DEATH CERTIFICATE ISSUED FOR E. P. SAILSTAD

Judge Reserves Decision as to Whether Certificate May be Offered in Trial

MRS. SAILSTAD-RICHARDSON CALLED TO STAND TUESDAY

Identifies Articles Found in Fire as Her Husband's

SUPERIOR, Wis.—When Wednesday's sessions of the federal court convened a matter of great interest to those directly involved in the case was whether Judge C. Z. Luse would permit the plaintiff to offer as an exhibit the death certificate issued for Edward J. Sailstad, William Downs deputy coroner for Douglas county, testifying Tuesday as the first witnesses in the suit brought by Mrs. Leona Sailstad-Richardson against the New York Life Insurance company for $10,000, stated that the certificate was issued in Superior after bones, presumably those of Sailstad, were taken from the ruins of a burned cabin at Lake Nebagamon, Wis.

Attorney John A. Cadigan for the plaintiff was prevented from introducing the death certificate Tuesday when Judge Luse sustained objections made by the defense. Attorneys expected Judge Luse to make known Wednesday the decision he reserved.

Mrs. Sailstad on Stand

Taking the stand as the second witness in the trial, Mrs. Sailstad-Richardson for more than an hour answered questions from attorneys for the defense.

Briefly, Mrs. Sailstad-Richardson testified that she had considered herself happily married, that Edward Sailstad was good to his family, that she had all the money she needed, but she knew nothing of any financial difficulties he may have had, that her husband had never intimated in any way that he would leave his wife and children for good, and that she had never expected difficulty in collecting life insurance carried by her husband.

Identifies Possessions

The plaintiff related to the jury how she came to Superior from Eau Claire, on the morning of Friday August 27, 1920, and instead of being met by her husband as had been telephoned, faced word of his death in the cabin fire. She identified a watch knife, ring of keys and six coins of the things which had been recovered from the ruins.

Attorney C. J. Hartley for the defense, in his address to the jury told of Sailstad's alleged relations with Dorothy Anderson, his stenographer, and how the couple conspired to burn the cabin after placing human bones there, so as to pave the way for their elopement.

Miss Anderson, so-called "Sunshine Girl," it was related by Attorney Hartley, with E. J. Sailstad, registered at various hotels in Wisconsin and in Chicago as Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kingsdon.

Seen After Fire?

In outlining the plaintiff's case to the jury, Attorney J. A. Cadigan said it would be proven conclusively that Edward J. Sailstad was burned to death in the cabin fire. Attorney C. J. Hartley said witnesses would tell the jury that they had positively identified Sailstad on at least two occasions after the fire at Lake Nebagamon.

FARWELL ATTORNEYS TO CARRY HIS CASE TO SUPREME COURT

MADISON, Wis.—Indications that Hartwell Farwell, Windsor farmer, sentenced to seven years in Waupun last May for the shooting of Phill Hosten, would appeal his case to supreme court were carried Wednesday in the petition of his attorney for extension of time in filing his bill of exceptions. Until November is asked by his counsel. The case could then be ready for the January term of supreme court.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON BONUS BILL IS OFFERED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON.—The conference report on the soldiers' bonus bill was presented in the house Wednesday by Chairman Fordney of the house managers. It is the plan for the leaders to call it up Thursday with the hope of final action during the day. The report then will be sent to the senate.

LONDON SEES POSSIBILITY OF TURKISH CAMPAIGN TO RE-TAKE CONSTANTINOPLE

Moslems May Follow Up Successes Against the Greeks in Asia Minor With Drive on Holy City; British Troops on Way, and Allied Warships Mobilize in Near-eastern Waters

LONDON.—That the recent successes of the Turkish nationalists in Asia Minor may lead to an effort by the Moslems to wrest Constantinople from the allies, and possibly even a Holy War throughout the Orient, was regarded as no slight probability on Wednesday, following a statement made by Naby Bey, Turkish representative in Paris, that the Turks would demand the return of Constantinople.

Apparently the allies are not ready to give up the city, which they seized during the war, and French and Italian warships are reported moving to the Dardanelles. Practically the entire Near-East fleet of the British navy is already assembled at Constantinople or in the straits. That the situation is changing rapidly is drawn from the fact that heretofore France has been more or less openly supporting the Turks against the Greeks. Dispatch of forces to Constantinople is taken as meaning that the danger to Constantinople outweighs the policies involved in the support up to now given Kemal and his troops.

Riots have broken out in Constantinople, and the foreign quarters are now under guard of allied patrols to preserve order, it is reported. On Monday several shops of Christians were looted by the Moslem rioters.

The city of Delhi, India, is reported to have cabled Kemal congratulations for his successes against the Greeks.

Meanwhile there is talk of a council of the powers to formulate a program of peace to be submitted to Kemal, in order to bring an end to hostilities as quickly as possible.

British Troops on Way

MALTA. — The British military transport Somali, bound for India, has been diverted to Malta to take a British battalion to Constantinople.

Small Nations to Aid Greece

LONDON.—The Central News in a dispatch from Athens says it is reliably informed that the Jugo-Slavian and Rumanian governments have evidenced without equivocation their intention of aiding Greece in the event of a Balkan conflict. Serbian troops, it adds, are being mobilized and moved in the direction of Uskub.

Athens Uneasy

ATHENS. — Disquieting rumors are afloat on all sides causing uneasiness which the sangfroid displayed in official circles is unable to calm.

It is reported that Turks in Thrace, encouraged by the success of Mustapha Kemal Pasha's army, are engineering an anti-Christian movement.

Encounters between Bulgarian irregulars and Greek detachments have occurred along the border of Nevrokop, and it is stated the irregulars were driven back.

Citizens of Athens apparently do not yet fully realize the extent of the disaster to the Greek army in Asia Minor.

Turks Occupy Brusa

CONSTANTINOPLE.—By the Associated Press.—The occupation of Brusa by Turkish nationalists which occurred Monday evening, marks the end of the Greek resistance in Asia Minor. Before evacuating the city the Greeks set it afire in several places, but the blaze was brought under control and only a single quarter of the town was destroyed.

At Mudania, the port of Brusa, which the Turks now have occupied, French troops were landed to protect French establishments.

Claim Few Prisoners Taken

CONSTANTINOPLE.—By the Associated Press.—Several thousand disarmed Greek soldiers still remain on the peninsula west of Smyrna, between the Gulf of Smyrna and the Gulf of Scalanova, according to the Greek military mission here, but with what is described as an adequate armed force protecting the seven mile wide isthmus separating the peninsula from the mainland.

The Greeks say they expect to remove these troops to home ports direct from the peninsula instead of first ferrying them to the neighboring islands.

The Turkish nationalists have really taken few prisoners, the Greeks here claim, but they admit that many units are not accounted for.

Venizelos in Paris

PARIS.—By the Associated Press.—Former Premier Venizelos of Greece arrived in Paris Wednesday from Switzerland. His friends here declared he planned his present visit here for a conference with political and personal friends regarding the situation in Athens with a view, it was felt, to the possibility of his being called back to power in Greece.

U. S. Brings Relief

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The United States destroyer Edsall has left for Smyrna bearing a deck load of supplies, including flour and condensed milk, furnished by the Near East for the starving refugees stranded there.

W. C. ROBBINS WILL AGAIN BE STARTING JUDGE AT THE FAIR

W. J. Carmichael, Well Known Swine Expert, to Judge Swine Entries

EXCURSION RATES AND SPECIAL TRAINS FOR THE FAIR VISITORS

Fare and a Half for Round Trip During Fair Season

W. C. Robbins of Chicago has again been secured as starting judge for the horse racing events to be run at the Interstate fair at La Crosse, with J. W. Losey of La Crosse as superintendent of the speed department, J. B. Brenner of La Crosse will be clerk of the course.

The secretary of the fair association, C. S. Van Auken, has been successful in securing the services of W. J. Carmichael, nationally known swine expert, as judge of the swine entries at the fair. Mr. Carmichael is secretary of the National Swine Breeders' association.

Excursion rates have been granted by the Milwaukee and Burlington railroads for visitors to the Interstate fair at La Crosse, which opens next Tuesday, September 19, and special trains will be run on both roads.

Both railroads have granted fare and a half for the round trip for all points within a 75 mile radius of the city, to go into effect September 16 and to run through September 22, with the final return date on the Milwaukee September 23.

On Wednesday, September 20, the Burlington will run a special train from Potosi to La Crosse. The train will arrive in the city at 9:40 a. m., leaving on the return trip at 9:30 p. m. The Milwaukee will run a special train from Austin, Minn., on September 21.

On the Burlington the special rates will apply from Potosi on the south and Stockholm on the north. On the Milwaukee they will apply to all points in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa within a radius of 75 miles of the city.

LA CROSSE MAN IS NAMED AS HEAD OF STATE PRESS MEN

Edward Bey, pressman employed by the La Crosse Tribune company, was elected president of the Press Room Workers of Wisconsin at the state conference held in Fond du Lac recently. Mr. Bey is secretary of the La Crosse chapter of the organization. The next annual convention of the pressmen will be held in La Crosse next September.

Mr. and Mrs. Bey, in company with Mr. and Mrs. George Sokolik and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Buschman motored to the convention. Enroute they visited Milwaukee, Madison and the Dells.

UNIONS ACCEPT WILLARD PLAN: SINGLE PACTS

Union Officials Silent But Admit Partial Agreement; Will Make Terms With Roads Individually

CONTINUE HEARING ON U. S. PLEA FOR PERMANENT ORDER

Government Attorneys Proceed With Presentation of Mass of Evidence

WASHINGTON.—By the Associated Press.—Virtual settlement of the rail strike as affecting from thirty-five to forty percent of the railroads of the country, was announced late Wednesday by Secretary of Labor Davis on the basis of reports from the meeting in Chicago of the general policy committee of the striking shop crafts unions.

The secretary said he was informed that the settlement covered the Seaboard Air Line, the Southern, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Other roads, including the Rock Island, he said, were expected to sign the agreement.

Mr. Davis added that he was informed that the settlement would affect between 65,000 and 85,000 miles of track, and in a formal statement declared that "with the settlement of the strike of 400,000 railway shop craftsmen assured the whole industrial machinery of the country is ready for a forward movement unprecedented in our economic history."

The basis of the settlement as understood here follows along lines of a tentative agreement recently worked out by B. M. Jewell, leader of the striking shopmen, and Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio.

The Terms

This plan has been understood to involve briefly the return to work of all strikers except those who have engaged in violence, retention by the carriers of all men now at work and adjudication of disputed questions by committees representing the railroads and their employes. What disposition was made of the troublesome seniority question was not known here.

Jewell Noncommittal

CHICAGO, Ill.—B. M. Jewell, head of the federated railway shopcrafts when informed that Secretary of Labor Davis at Washington had announced that virtual settlement of the strike on a number of railroads had been reached said: "I cannot say a word."

Continue Injunction Hearing

CHICAGO, Ill.—Settlement of the railroad shop strike on some railroads, as announced by Secretary of Labor Davis will not affect the prosecution of the government's injunction suit against the strikers, spokesmen for the government declared when the settlement report reached Judge Wilkerson's court.

Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, in stating that road was not involved in a settlement plan said: "We are not involved. We are going ahead with practically full forces."

CHICAGO, Ill.—A decision on settlement of the railroad shopmen's strike was predicted as a possibility late Wednesday afternoon as the general policy committee of the federated shop crafts went into session at 10:30 o'clock. It was virtually the same prediction made Tuesday morning.

Mr. Jewell said the union chiefs had "hoped to get some where." Tuesday, when their meeting was "unfortunately interrupted."

Janitor Breaks up Meeting

The interruption was made by a janitor who, single-handed, broke up the meeting of shop craft leaders at a critical stage of the proceedings. With mop and broom in hand, the janitor told the railroad men they would have to "clear out" so he could "clean up for some women" who, for a night meeting, had rented the hall where the shop craft chieftains were assembled.

"RED CLERGY" IN RUSSIA DECLARES FOR SIMPLICITY

Must Bring Church Nearer to the Masses; New Church Must be Simple and Humble

MOSCOW.—The "red clergy," led by a group of young men, held its first congress here early in August and discussed plans to establish a new "live church." It was contended that the church must be brought nearer to the masses, and that the "new church" should be as "simple and as humble as was Christ himself."

The aims of the "red clergy," so-called because of its acknowledgement of the social revolution and the Soviet Internationale, include liquidation of the superiority of the regular clergy in Russian church affairs; doing away with the reactionary section of higher clergy who, it is claimed, are still hoping for a coup d'etat to sweep them into power again, and preparation of an all Russian conclave at which a successor to Patriarch Tichon is to be elected.

The "red clergy" group, headed by Archbishop Antonin and a number of young Moscow and Petrograd clergymen, came into existence as a result of a split among the Russian Orthodox clergy, brought about soon after confiscation of church treasures was started by Soviet government officials.

Because of the opposition which developed among the ruling church authorities, a number of the clergy were prosecuted in various parts of Russia, even Patriarch Tichon himself having been placed on trial. Many sentences of death were imposed, some of which were carried into effect, and various other archbishops, bishops and clergymen were given jail sentences. Realizing that the conflict between the state and the church threatened the very existence of the church itself, the group of young clergymen took the initiative and demanded the abdication of Patriarch Tichon. The Patriarch yielded to the demands, and immediately afterward the movement of the "live church" was inaugurated.

The new movement, first of all, is against supporters of the old Byzantine church service which demands splendor in all its glory. It is contended that the costly mitres of gold studded with jewels, the magnificent vestments, the priceless rugs are too significant of aristocracy. "In all this splendor," claim the young clergymen, "little room is left for the light of Christ's mercy and love." The church must be brought nearer to the masses—it should be "proletarized." And it is on these grounds that the "red clergy" have recognized the revolution, its results, and the Internationale.

The "live church" proposed also to clear the churches and parish councils of counter revolutionary clergy and to remove the vow of celibacy for bishops.

$2000 A DAY FORTUNE COMES TO GIRL OVERNIGHT

MUSKOGEE, Okla. — Sudden wealth has not given Exie Fife, "overnight" Oklahoma Indian heiress, a desire for a gilded palace nor a retinue of servants.

Instead she wants a bungalow. And she will take care of it herself, she says.

Exie recently went to bed practically broke. Her supper had all but exhausted her meager bank account. She awoke in the morning to discover that a 3000-barrel oil well had been drilled in on the allotment made her by the government in the Bristow field!

Then came news that two other wells of 2000-barrel capacity had started to flow.

So now, Miss Fife has an income of about $2000 a day. This is expected to increase to $5000, government agents say.

What would be the first thing the heiress would do? That's just what she did—she purchased a car, price $5000.

But no jewels, flapper clothes or bobbed hair for her, says Miss Fife.

The inevitable marriage proposals are flowing in almost as much profusion as her oil, but she has opened scarcely any of them.

Plans for her new bungalow are being drawn by government agents and a contract soon will be awarded by the Indian agency. It will cost only a few of the thousands of dollars Miss Fife is banking every day.

Previous to the money deluge, Miss Fife lived at Fame, McIntosh county, in one of the customary three-room box-like structures of the reservation.

LONGEVITY AND STATURE

Some person with a statistical turn of mind ought to collect figures on the relative longevity of giants and dwarfs.

So far as lay observation goes, the advantage is distinctly on the side of midgets. "Major" Louis Davis, 37 inches high, died the other day at the age of eighty-one years. Memory fails to recall any seven-foot prodigy who attained equal length of years. If such there have been, let their biographers come forward with the data.

PEACOCK'S GORGEOUS COLORING DUE ONLY TO REFLECTED LIGHT

Film of Oil on Pavement Has Same Color Values Declares Chemistry Expert

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—A film of oil dropped on the pavement by an errant automobile contains the same color values as the highly decorative tail feathers of the peacock, said Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft of Cornell university, speaking at the general meeting of the American Chemical society.

"Everybody has noticed the brilliantly colored patches on the pavement where automobiles have spilled oil," said Dr. Bancroft. "The colors range from red to gold to blue, and are very vivid or metallic. They change with the angle at which one sees them, and they are not due to pigments, since we have a thin film of a nearly colorless oil. These colors are due to the interference of light reflected from the upper and lower surfaces of the film and they depend on the thickness of the film, which averages about one-fifty-thousandths of an inch. They are more vivid when oil is spilled on an asphalt pavement than when on a dirt road because there is less disturbing light reflected from the black background.

"The brilliant colors of the tail feathers of the peacock and the apparently self-luminous reds in the throat feathers of the humming bird are not due to pigments. When one looks through a peacock's feathers one sees only a brown due to the so-called melanin pigment which is equivalent to the asphalt pavement. In all the iridescent feathers the barbules are flattened plates of brown which therefore give the colors of thin films. The structure is so marked that an expert can pick out the iridescent feathers in the dark by the feel.

"It is possible to duplicate the color effects of the peacock and the humming bird by putting a very thin coat of varnish over any dark feather; but we cannot regulate the thickness with such accuracy as to produce the patterns of the peacock. When one considers that variations in thickness of a hundred thousandths of an inch may change the color completely, it seems marvellous that all the tail feathers of all the peacocks can be so nearly alike.

"The neck feathers of the white pigeon show practically no iridescence because the dark background is lacking. If they are dyed brown, the iridescence appears in full force. On the other hand the white peacock is not an albino in the sense of merely having no dark pigment. The whole structure of the feathers has changed. The barbules are not flat plates and consequently no brilliant colors can be developed by dyeing the feather brown or painting the back with India ink."

SAFEGUARDING TRUST FUNDS

ALL of the experience, all of the knowledge of modern financial conditions, and all of the tried methods of supervision and accounting of this company, are utilized in the management of trust funds lodged with us.

When property or securities come into our hands as executor or trustee, our first and immediate action is to go over them carefully for investment weaknesses. Then we endeavor to strengthen the position of the estate by judicious sale if that seems advisable and if it is permitted under the will. Re-investments are passed upon by our Trust Officers and by a special committee of our Board of Directors.

By naming this company executor and trustee in your will, you are assured that every safeguard of a highly developed organization is being utilized in conserving your estate.

We have an interesting booklet entitled "Safeguarding Your Family's Future", which explains our services as executor and trustee of an estate. We shall be glad to send you a copy.

NEW CREATURE

THEREFORE if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold all things are become new.—2 Corinthians 5: 17.

Off His Beat

MR. RUDYARD KIPLING, of India and England, is one of our favorite authors of muscular poetry and Indian short stories. But as a statesman and propagandist we can't give him much. His war-stuff was far below the level of the Kipling of carlier years, and now he sours the whole batch with a blurb about the United States and the war which makes one speculate if there is anything at all left of the mind which invented Mulvaney and the Jungle Books. The United States, says this latest impersonation of the great man, went into the European war in search of gold and 8 per cent interest on its investments, and it got out of the war as soon as possible.

Well, the last part's probably true. Our army and navy displayed a great eagerness from the very first day we were at war to get to the front and get back again, by way of putting the enemy out of business. We did get out as soon as we could, and a lot sooner than most of the allied experts, figuring on what their own troops had been able to do against Germany, believed was possible. But when Mr. Kipling thinks our aim was more gold, and eight per cent interest, he reveals a dismaying ignorance in every direction. We got lots of gold out of the war, it is true, but in many ways it has been a curse to the country, for the overbalancing of exchange parities it brought about has crippled our export business, tied up most of our new merchant marine to rot, and subjected a great number of our domestic industries to disastrous foreign competition that the expensive dollar makes it impossible to meet. As for interest, we do not recall that we have got any interest yet, either at eight per cent or at any other rate. We pay the interest on the money we loaned Mr. Kipling's country and its allies out of American taxes.

It were easy to come back at Mr. Kipling with a "tu quoque" based on much sounder evidence than anything he has said about us. Persia, Mesopotamia, Egypt, Africa, Palestine—there are certain tangible proofs of the pudding to be marshalled, but one feels it were wiser to refrain. Jangling back and forth about the faults of each other makes nothing but ill-feeling between nations and serves no purpose. So, in more sorrow than in anger, we content ourselves with recommending to Mr. Kipling the old precept to authors: "Write only of things you know about." Else will he do irreparable damage to one of the finest reputations in modern English letters.

The Threat of Smyrna

WHAT will be the effect of the Turkish nationalist triumph in Asia Minor? For it must be considered not only in its influence upon Greek policy and the dynasty of Constantine, which is immediately to the fore in most discussions, but also for its effect upon the whole Orient, particularly those portions of large Mohammedan population.

The change of a ministry in Athens, or even the second dethronement of King Constantine, would be a comparatively minor reverberation of the war compared to results that might come through the effect of the event upon, say, the Moslem population of India. Moslems and Hindus are endeavoring to arrange in that country of vast population a working agreement whereby they may unite to eject British rule. Egypt has won a precarious and nominal independence. Mesopotamia and Persia chafe at the yoke. When word spreads that the Moslems have beaten Greece, or still more, perhaps, when it becomes known that Britain backed Greece to win and lost, what will be the effect upon the followers of the prophet in British possessions? France, too, has its Moslem populations in Africa and in the Orient. The French backed the winner, of course, so their position would seem immediately less disturbing. But should a real religious war involving all of Islam be fanned to a blaze by the success of Kemal it may be doubted if the distinction between French and British infidels would be a sufficient restraint to prevent insurrection in French colonies.

All may come to nothing, of course. The British are skilled in Oriental diplomacy, and understand very well how to prevent harmonious action between hostile groups. But it cannot be denied that the Turkish victory is a blow to European prestige, and that it will reverberate through the Orient with a great effect upon millions who are nearer the fanaticism in which Holy Wars find their genesis than they have been in centuries.

Garcia

IN San Francisco a retired army officer gets the Distinguished Service Cross for an act of heroism nearly a fourth of a century ago. He is Andrew S. Rowan, the man who "carried the message to Garcia." War had broken out between America and Spain. President McKinley wanted to get a letter to Garcia, Cuban rebel leader, address unknown. Rowan didn't ask any questions, but tackled and overcame terrific obstacles and "delivered the goods." He was the original "go-getter." His fame has been sung in over 20 languages—an universal admission that stalling on the job is a certain road to failure. We all know the price of success. Few are willing to pay it.

You

C. W. BARRON, leading Wall Street editor, says: "I wouldn't give Henry Ford $10 a week as a financial reporter, but I would agree to get him a job at any time at more than $1,000,000 a year as a factory manager." For each man there is some one job for which he is better fitted than anyone else. People are forever being told to "work hard." More important is to find the work for which they are best fitted. Unless they find it, they can never hope for spectacular success any more than square pegs will fit into round holes.

Cobwebs

BOOTLEGGERS rejoice. Some genius has discovered how to manufacture artificial cobwebs. A stock of new wine, bottled with mildewed counterfeit labels, is planted in the cellar of "a wealthy family, now out of town, who want to dispose of their wine cellar." A few handfuls of dust, a little artistic draping with the phoney cobwebs, and another rum-hound is ready to be parted from his bankroll. Barnum was right.

Cigarets

CIGARET smoking, after a long and steady slump, is coming back strongly. American factories now are turning out packaged "coffin-nails" at the rate of 60,000,000,000 a year, or nearly two-thirds more than last February. One reason is lower prices brought by the price-war. Nerves also have something to do with it. Is a man nervous because he smokes, or does he smoke because he's nervous? Doctors disagree.

Mr. Dempsey seems to remember his mother's warning not to fight. He is our heavy wait champ.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Rev. A. V. Ingham, who has won his way into the hearts of the La Crosse public during the last four years that he has been in charge of the Caledonia Street M. E. church, will preach his last sermon as pastor of that congregation next Sunday. Rev. Ingham goes to Richland Center early next week.

Sheldon Post, member of the La Crosse police force, died yesterday at his home, 1553 George street, after a month's illness. Mr. Post has been a member of the police force for twenty-five years, being night sergeant for the last fifteen years.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Service leave today for Menomonie, Wis., where they will reside.

P. J. Keaveny, 527 Caledonia street, yard clerk at the C., M. & St. P. railroad in North La Crosse, leaves in a few days for a month's trip through the west and south.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Miss Edith Briggs, who for the past year so successfully filled the position of superintendent of the La Crosse hospital, was married yesterday in Chicago to Mr. George McWhorter of that city.

Miss Frances Rodolf leaves next week for New York where she is to take a course in library work.

The Misses Nettie Young, Gertrude and Helen Norbeck have gone back to their school at Mount St. Joseph.

Mrs. Augusta Metzger leaves this week for Cleveland, Ohio, to take up her residence with her daughter, Mrs. George Gund.

Mrs. W. W. Taylor and Miss Bessie Taylor leave this week for New York where Miss Taylor will enter a young ladies' school at Irvington-on-the-Hudson.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Frank Norbeck will take an excellent position in Chicago this week, in the office of the Electric Street Railway company by which Walter McDonald is also employed. "Budd" Whipple of Winona, is secretary and treasurer of the company and has picked two bright La Crosse boys to help him.

The Dunn County News of Menomonie says R. T. Tollefson of the Batavian Bank, La Crosse, is there to look up a location for a state bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lohmiller leave tonight for Philadelphia to attend the convention of the National Association of Ticket Agents which meets there September 14.

John Garrett, fireman on the Milwaukee road, left for Cincinnati yesterday to attend the national convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Mr. Garrett is master of the lodge here.

The residence of Peter Limoseth at 1726 Winnebago street was struck by lightning last night and badly damaged. The bolt struck the roof and split the front corners of the house clear to the ground. It also demolished the chimney, went across the yard to the wood shed and tore off a board and then went to the pump and down the well.

The Real Thing

BY LILY WANDEL

When Emmy was a little girl and told fairy stories to her small brothers and sisters and the inevitable O'Connor boys next door and perhaps a dozen others in the neighborhood she invariably ended the story with "And the princess lived happily ever afterwards with diamond buckles on her slippers!" She would then stick out a small dusty shoe to emphasize the fact. It did not make any difference to Emmy whether the story was Red Riding Hood or Cinderella, the diamond buckles were never forgotten. To Emmy they represented the zenith of luxury, good fortune and happiness. When the others, perhaps, had forgotten all about diamond buckles Emmy still dreamed of the glittering ornaments and all the joy that went with them.

"Emmy," said her mother right in the middle of such a golden dream, "Uncle Dave and Aunt Kate have written—you'll never guess what! You're to spend the summer with them at Bar Harbor! Emmy, Aunt Kate writes that she wants to give you a chance—a real chance! You're such a pretty dear girl."

Emmy went about in a daze of joy. A summer at a fashionable hotel with Uncle Dave and Aunt Kate! The proper clothes; batiing, tennis, boating and dancing every night! The younger sisters and brothers were awed and the O'Connors next door were amazed and delighted at such good fortune, with the exception of Johnny who turned sulky and had nothing to say.

"Remember," reminded Emmy's ambitious mother the night before she departed, "it's your chance! You are an attractive, interesting girl—mind that you attract the right man!" She laughed as she kissed the happy daughter.

"Just leave it to me, Mummie, dear! I'll be coming home with diamond buckles on my slippers."

Aunt Kate was almost a counterpart of Emmy's mother. She adored the brown-eyed niece and was likewise ambitious for her. She bustled about, figuratively collaring all the eligible young men and introducing them to her protege. Privately she advised Emmy which were the most desirable.

Emmy liked them all and good-naturedly followed her aunt's instructions. She was just as anxious as her aunt was to write home that she was engaged to the son of the owner of a string of drug stores or the nephew of one of the great oil magnates.

"Emmy," glowed Aunt Kate one night in the girl's bedroom, "you've been here a month today and you're positively the most popular girl in the hotel! My dear, Dave and I worship you, and if—I mean we'll do something handsome for you, dear, if you make a good match!"

Emmy snuggled her arm around Aunt Kate's fat neck. "You're both so good to me! Honest, it makes tears come to my eyes—I'm not worth all this trouble. I'm just an ordinary little stenog."

Aunt Kate gave her a hug and kiss. "You're worth making very happy! Now, listen, honey; isn't that young Roger Abbott very attentive?"

Emmy blushed and nodded.

"I don't want to influence you too much, dear, and you must follow your heart, but I'll say this young man has wonderful prospects. His uncle is the immensely wealthy Thaddeus Abbott!" whispered Aunt Kate impressively. "Oodles and oodles of money they say, and young Roger stands well with his uncle who is unmarried!"

Emmy continued to charm young Abbott and delight her ambitious aunt, but a greater surprise and pleasure was in store for Aunt Kate, something that excelled her fondest and highest hopes. Thaddeus Abbott arrived, the typical sophisticated, rich sportsman, and almost immediately he seemed attracted by the brown-eyed Emmy.

"Fave!" gurgled Aunt Kate in the privacy of their room. "I have to pinch myself to believe it is true! Thaddeus Abbot paying attention to our little Emmy! It's more than flattering—the whole hotel is envious! But, tell me, do you really think he is serious?"

Uncle Dave chuckled. "He's serious all right, but is Emmy? You know he is quite a bit older and—"

"You leave Emmy to me—she's very sensible! Imagine writing that news home!"

Two weeks later on night Emmy tiptoed in the connecting dressing-room and softly called Aunt Kate, and when the kimonoed lady appeared flung herself on the ample bosom and cried joyously, "Aunt Kate, we're engaged. Look!" She displayed an immense solitaire on her finger.

"To Thaddeus Abbott?" whispered Aunt Kate, just to make sure.

Emmy, glowingly happy, nodded.

But Emmy's cup of joy ran over when a week later Thaddeus Abbott laid in her hands a small velvet box.

"Not diamond buckles!" panted Emmy as she viewed the glittering coveted ornaments. "Oh!" and pressed the cold, dazzling stones to her warm lips. If she had had any murmuring doubts now she was sure that Thaddeus Abbott was her real prince for everlasting happiness.

She could scarcely wait to thank him and rush to her room to show Aunt Kate and Uncle Dave this emblem of her happiness, the realization of her fondest dream, for they knew what diamond buckles had always meant in Emmy's life. She hastened to the connecting dressing room, Aunt Kate's name on her lips, but waited when she heard the word "diamond buckles" mentioned.

"You told him, Dave, what importance Emmy attached to them?" questioned her aunt, "and he laughed about it? That wasn't very nice, but——"

"I insisted," Uncle Dave emphasized, "I could have shaken the fellow, putting it off from day to day. This morning I cornered him all right. He said he lost all his money in the game last night—an ther thing I don't like—so, Kate, I went out and bought those diamond buckles and told him to give them to her."

Emmy sat in her room in the dark for a long time. It was as if suddenly everything was stripped of artificiality and finery and there remained only the truth, bare and startling. The intoxicating excitement of the novelty of the unaccustomed surroundings left her; she felt very sober and—homesick. She saw herself as a fortune hunter, grasping for the material, nor considering the real worth of character. Thaddeus Abbott, stripped of adornment and affectedness, was but a gambler.

"Uncle Dave," whispered Emmy the next morning, "I'm sorry to leave you this way—I've written Mr. Abbott a little note, and here—" she pressed the velvet case in his hand—"I know you and Aunt Kate will understand."

A very quiet Emmy threw herself in her mother's arms that night. "I couldn't go through with it, Mummie—I want real happiness!"

"After all I'm glad you want that and not money," smiled her mother understandingly.

It was only a few nights later when Emmy and Johnny O'Connor sat on the porch swing discussing the next family picnic in view, when a lull in the conversation gave Johnny the opportunity to say rather embarrassingly, "Before you went away, Emmy, I bought you a little present—not much, but I thought——" He drew a pasteboard box from his pocket and laid it in her open palm.

Emmy raised the lid and there on a neat white card were pinned two diamond slipper buckles! Not real diamonds, of course, but dazzling imitations.

"Oh, Johnny!" was all Emmy could say in a clouded, trembling little whisper, and looked from the brilliants to Johnny's eyes. Shine as those paste diamonds did, they could not shine as bright and clear as the love in Johnny's eyes, yet Emmy knew that this time these buckles were the real thing for happiness.

MARY ARMSTRONG IS SENT TO JAIL ON A DISORDERLY CHARGE

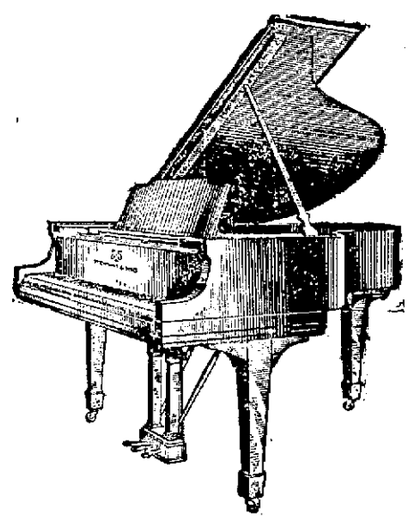

Mary Armstrong, arrested last week when federal prohibition agents raided the shack of "Rabbitt Joe" Pinger, in the bottom lands south of the city, was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail on charge of disorderly conduct. Pinger had already been sentenced to five months in the county jail by Judge Brindley on charges of illegal possession of alcohol.

It is not uncommon for glass-blowers to drink 25 or 30 quarts of water in the course of a day's work.

REIGN OF FLAPPER AT END IS OPINION OF FASHION LEADERS

In Her Stead Will Appear Graceful Long-skirted Figure With Hair High, Ears Showing

CHICAGO, Ill.—That the reign of the flapper is at an end and rather than her abbreviated skirt, exposed knees and bobbed hair will appear a graceful, long-skirted figure, with hair piled high on her head and pink ears showing, is the unanimous decree of fashion for the fall and winter by leading American fashion artists who compose the membership of the Fashion Art league of America, here for the thirty-fourth semi-annual convention.

Contrary to the usual pre-meeting gossip of business and plans for strategic maneuvers and swinging convention policies, the advance guard of the more than 200 fashion creators who are expected to attend, livened up the hours by drawing descriptive pictures of startling new ideas they have in gowns, wraps, suits and other women's apparel to be displayed for madam's approval. Mme. Alla Rinley, president of the league, promises some alluring departures in feminine costume.

The elaborate semi-annual feature of the league, the "Fashion Show Extraordinaire," will be held on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, September 13. The creations exhibited will be entirely those of American fashion artists, and will be featured on the most attractive manequins available.

"The league has accomplished a work of outstanding importance in bringing the American fashion artist to the attention of the women of America," declared Mme. Ripley. "Well dressed American women no longer find it necessary to go abroad in quest of the latest modes. This is of great importance, not only to the fashion artistry of America, but to the American textile industry."

BAREFOOT MEMORIES

"A laborer fell 11 stories and fell onto a pile of sand unhurt." He may have landed without any serious injuries, but if the reporter thinks it doesn't hurt to fall on sand he has never put in his boyhood vacations jumping from the top of box cars into cars filled with sand. It's fun once or twice, and then the novelty wears off. The ideal jumping material is scarce and the season is short—flax seed. To jump from a box car into a wagon load of flax seed is a privilege known to comparatively few. It gives all the early pleasant sensations of landing in quicksand, without the dangers.—Kansas City Star.

EXTREME STYLES IN HABERDASHERY GO; SIMPLICITY RULES

Only Ties Still Show Trace of Gaudy Period for Coming Season

Noticeable improvement in the execution of details, meaning better style, better fabrics and better workmanship, will be seen in the fall displays of men's haberdashery. The battle for quality has been waged successfully and once more, we are restored to the conditions that featured wearables of pre-war days.

Manufacturers, who in the stress of business caused by shortage of help and inability to get suitable material during the last few years, have turned their attention to the nicety of things. That has resulted in a better finished product—a diverting change to all who seek the distinctive in dress.

White Shirts in Demand

Particularly does this apply to shirts in which there will be noticeably better fabrics and detailing. Simplicity, of course, follows. The white shirt has been high in demand by dealers everywhere. Its popularity is ascribed to the natural swing from the high colored silk shirts in which the candy stripes and loud effect predominated.

The trend is foward the solid colors, with tans and grays in the pastel shades dominating. These, of course, apply largely to the finer grades of madras shirts.

The white silk shirt will find its place in the sun, but the plain silks will find as companions the satin stripes and jacquard effects. Colored silk shirts, with variegated stripes and other effects are losing in favor.

Two-Button Band Cuffs

One of the newest things in shirts will effect the cuffs. The two-button band cuffs will be worn more than ever, but of course will not supplant the present day French cuffs.

Collar-attached shirts in madras, poplin, cheviots and flannels will be shown more than ever. The reason is found in the improved making of collars for such shirts. Heretofore the makers apparently took little pains in putting good collars on even high grade shirts.

Neckwear gaudier than ever will make its bow this fall. That means the artillery or college stripes will be the vogue. This is in contrast to the usual somber effects that mark the beginning of the fall and winter season. Many will show the diagonal stripes in combination of two and three colors, featuring such as blue, silver and black; tan, gold and brown, etc.

Grenadine Ties Good

Grenadine ties which reached the height of popularity this last spring will continue to be worn by good dressers and this season many new combinations of stripes and other effects are to be had. Bow ties also will be in good from, with designs in three different styles, plain, dots or stripes.

Because of the increasing popularity of Oxfords for men's footwear we'll find more wool hosiery worn than ever. Featured for this coming season are the fine importations, principally from the English isles. They have brought to us an exceptionally high grade selection marked by its unusually fine weight, yet having sufficient warmth.

Among other hosiery one can select from camel hair or cashmere, Heather mixture and darker shades of blue, brown and gray—also black—are shown. Fine lisle and silk hose in fashion's best colors will remain in favor.

The pajama innovations which appeared last season will continue in favor. One is the coat that is buttonless, put on by slipping over the head and the other is the elimination of the draw string in the trousers. The latter is fitted and stitched to the coat which relieves the aggravation occasioned by slipped strings.

Lighter Underwear Favored

In underwear for fall and winter there is a tendency toward the lighter weight garments. This is due in a measure to the better heated homes and "warmth without weight" ulsters which furnish sufficient protection even on the coldest of days.

Collars for fall are a trifle higher than they have been recently, still low enough to makes them exceedingly comfortable and stylish in appearance. The short, pointed models are preferred.

Fancy Fads in 'Kerchiefs

In handkerchiefs fanciful fads are coming in strong. Colored borders and decorative effects are being displayed. Some silk and fine linen ones are being treated with one, two and three harmonizing colors. Colored initials and monograms are being used, even the white handkerchiefs. Pongee, which is normally a summer fabric, will be found among the fall stocks.

The better dressed men will wear two pairs of gloves. Buckskin or heavy cape is favored for every day service, and kid or suede for evening wear. Dark brown or gray is the preferred color and both plain and embroidered or stitched backs are given equal preference.

How It Happened

"It was the first time I had ever driven a car," feebly explained the victim of the accident, "I got to going pretty fast and forgot how to stop. I looked ahead and saw a bridge rushing to meet me I tried to turn out to let the bridge pass and—that is all I know about it."—Country Gentlemen.

USE CHEMICALS TO ELIMINATE KNOCKS IN AUTO ENGINES

Interesting Experiments Performed at Convention of U. S. Chemists

PITTSBURGH Pa.—Sea-weed kelp, automobile engines, and just plain milk were the widely different subjects discussed at the American Chemical Society convention now being held here.

On the platform before the delegates, where usually symphony orchestras perform, a motor engine affected with "knocking" played the chief overture of the day, while chemists listened, as intently as opera lovers do to "Carmen" to the effect of the introduction of a chemical compound, invented by Thomas Midgley Jr., and T. A. Boyd of Dayton, on the "knocking" discords.

"Chemicals whose action is similar to those known as 'catalysts,' even if used only in the most minute quantities," said Mr. Boyd, "may obviate, to a great degree the knocking which is most injurious to engines." The gasoline symphony played by cylinders was to prove his contention.

Sea-weed kelp, which contains iodine and other elements common in sea water, is believed to be beneficial in preventing goitre, was explained to be a necessary part of the diet of those who live so far inland as to be deprived of sea food in quantities.

J. W. Turrentine, whose activities resulted in the establishment of the kelp industry on the Pacific coast, introduced the seed-weed kelp in its new role to the chemists. "The new form," he said, "admits of cheap preparation and preservation, and is easily available for the afflicted people of all countries."

Press-wives' uncertainty as to the quality or age of the contents of the bottle found with the newspaper on the porch each morning is the reason for the prominent part of milk in today's meeting. "Methylene blue," a dye, is cheaper and more sure than the nose in detecting the age of milk," said Minnie P. Dresslar, who demonstrated the action of the dye in discovering old milk and remaining perfectly clear in new. Seven other dyes may be used with equal success the scientists say.

ROOSEVELT APPROVES PLAN FOR NATIONAL "NAVY DAY" LAST FRIDAY IN OCTOBER

WASHINGTON. — A proposal by the Navy League to set aside a Navy Day to be observed throughout the country the last Friday in October "to inform the people not only of what their navy has done for them in its glorious past achievements, but also of what their navy is doing from day to day, and will do for them in the future," has received the hearty support of Acting Secretary Roosevelt.

The idea was suggested several weeks ago and submitted by President R. J. Kelley of the Navy League after a meeting of the league's executive committee.

Mr. Kelley's letter and Col. Roosevelt's reply made public by the latter, follow in part:

"My dear Mr. Secretary:

"At a meeting of the executive committee of the Navy League of the United States, it was decided to set apart a day to be known as Navy Day, to be observed throughout the country with appropriate ceremonies. The day proposed is the last Friday in October.

"The Navy League, as you know, is a civilian organization, founded for the purpose of promoting a more general knowledge of the navy. The people should be informed in every detail as to what their navy is doing for them, for it is on them that the navy depends for its support.

"The navy has a splendid record of which our people may justly be proud. It is our great defensive weapon and has never caused a war. It has been a potent factor, throughout its history, in preserving peace. The navy itself earnestly worked to bring about the success of the recent limitation of armament conference.

"Above these considerations, however, the navy is a great and potent factor for the development and aid of our people during peace time. I do not believe the farmers and manufacturers of this country realize how closely the navy is interwoven with their every-day affairs. The navy is interlocked with many great benevolent associations, such as the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Jewish Welfare Board, Navy Relief, Near East Relief and others. These great humanitarian organizations that care for the needs of the sick and the poor, always assume as a part of their duty, aid for those who are in our naval service.

"Every year thousands of young men return to civilian life after a term of service in our navy. These young men are better citizens in every way, for, in addition to the love of country which is inculcated through service to the flag, they have been practically fitted by work in many diverse occupations to earn their livelihood.

"Through Navy Day we propose to inform the people not only of what their navy has done for them in its glorious past achievements, but also of what their navy is doing from day to day, and will do for them in the future.

"It is the earnest desire of the Navy League to secure the co-operation of the Navy Department and the navy. The participation of the navy in the celebration of Navy Day in any way you may suggest, will be cordially appreciated.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) R. J. KELLEY.
Honorable Theodore Roosevelt,
Acting Secretary of the Navy,
Washington, D. C."

"My dear Mr. Kelley:

"I want to thank you for your letter. Your idea is sound in every way. I think it particularly good because of certain physical conditions we have in the country. The people of the seaboard are reasonably familiar with the navy. They see the great ships. They know the navy men. In the interior of our country, it is, however, a different story. The people of Kansas and Oklahoma do not get the opportunity for first-hand information that their fellow countrymen of California and New York do. They do not realize that the navy serves them equally with the people of the seaboard. I hope you will make an especial endeavor to familiarize the citizens of our great inland states with the every day service their navy does for them.

"The navy will be glad to co-operate with you in any way it can. I am confident this really patriotic work you are undertaking will be of great service to the country.

Believe me,
Yours very truly,
(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
Mr. R. J. Kelley, President,
The Navy League of the United States,
Washington, D. C."

CLERKS HELD TO RULES IN ISSUING HUNTING LICENSES

MADISON, Wis.—That county clerks will be held to strict accountability in the issuance of hunting licenses was the statement issued on Wednesday by the state conservation commission. At their recent convention the Association of County Clerks petitioned the conservation commission for some allowances in the issue of hunting and trapping licenses without a regular form of application being first filed with the county clerk.

"But one deflection of this rule will be authorized," stated Secretary R. S. Scheibel in the statement today. "If a person sends in his 1921 license, and you know him personally and are sure he is entitled to a 1922 license you may send him his new license but you must mail with it a regular application form and instruct him to execute the same and mail it back to you."

The Commission has prohibited the sending out of licenses in this manner upon the presentation of a license issued prior to last year. It also prohibits the county clerk from issuing licenses for several members of a family upon the personal application of some one member without the proper applications being executed.

ROB ST. PAUL BANK

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Four bandits Tuesday held up the St. Anthony Park state bank in the western part of the city and escaped with between $3,000 and $4,000.

That Proposal

"Ninety-nine out of a hundred married men, if they spoke the truth, would have to confess that they had been unaware thirty seconds before they proposed that they were going to do so; and that the most incredible happening in their lives had been when, thirty seconds later, they had discovered that not only had they proposed, but that they had been riotously accepted."—From the "Kingdom Round the Corner," by Conings-by Dawson.

SPARTAN CHARGES WIFE MADE "MOON" ON THE NORTH SIDE

Brown, Seeking Possession of Child, Says Spouse Operated Burkhalter's Still

WOMAN DENIES TELLING HIM THAT SHE WAS MAKING LIQUOR

Court Denies Habeus Corpus Writ for Present

WILLIAM BROWN of Sparta, who sought to obtain possession of his three-year-old son, Everett, through habeus corpus proceedings in county court Tuesday afternoon, failed to get the child, County Judge Brindley deciding that he should remain in the custody of the mother, for the present at least.

It was revealed at the trial that Brown gave information to the state prohibition agents that resulted in the raid on the home of Fred Burkhalter, 428 Charles street, and seizure of a still and some moonshine. Monday Burkhalter was fined $200 and costs by Judge Brindley for violation of the "dry" law.

Burkhalter's Housekeeper

Mrs. Wilma Brown is housekeeper for Burkalter, who works in the rubber mills. She, according to her testimony, prepares the meals for Burkhalter and his three children and also for herself and child.

Brown testified that when he called at the Burkhalter home last week to see his wife and seek to have her return to him at Sparta, that she refused to go back saying that she could make three times as much money as he could. "I told her she would have to show me," said Brown, "so she took me up in the attic and showed me a moonshine still, saying that Burkhalter bought the stuff and she made the moonshine."

Tells of Married Life

Brown then told of his married life that began five years ago in Marmarth, N. D., then shifted to South Dakota and later to Wisconsin. It was while they were in South Dakota that Mrs. Brown left her husband and took her child to visit her grandparents in Indiana.

Mrs. Brown testified that she did not receive enough money from her husband to support her and her child and that she was forced to go to work. She denied that she told her husband that she was making moonshine or that she showed him a still in the attic of the Burkhalter house.

She declared that she did not know where the still was and that the prohibition agents found the still in the woodshed.

The court told Mrs. Brown that he did not think Burkhalter's home offered the best place for her, whereupon Mrs. Brown volunteered to move if the court or anyone else could provide her with as good a job.

Would Take Child to Sparta

Brown informed the court that he had arranged to have his child cared for by a woman in Sparta at whose house he boarded, provided the court awarded the custody of the infant to him. Mrs. Brown charged him with undue friendliness with the woman and intimated that in her opinion the boarding house was not a proper place for her child.

Clarence Weber was attorney for Brown while Albert C. Wolfe was Mrs. Brown's lawyer.

When Mahogany Came in Style

It is said that mahogany was first known to Europeans through the fuct that Sir Walter Raleigh, when at Trinidad in 1595, used planks of it to repair one of his vessels. The samples thus carried to England were much admired; but for over one hundred years the wood was put to no really practical use. In 1720, however, Doctor Gibbons, of London, received a few mahogany planks from a friend in the West Indies, and employed a cabinet-maker to work them up. From that time to the present the wood has been a staple article of commerce.

WORLD'S SUPREME RULER LIVING IN STATE METROPOLIS

MADISON. — "The Supreme Ruler of the World" now resides in Milwaukee. This was learned Wednesday when Governor John J. Blaine received a letter from a Milwaukeeire so signed. The governor was informed that all "laws temporary, permanent, stationary, moving, running, national and international which I do not approve are Scraps of Paper. The best servant I have is the Devil."

three piece one. Some are of rich velvety materials, trimmed with fur, the lining of the coat and the upper part of the frock being lovely, soft chiffon. But if one is attempting to unite a degree of moderation with self-indulgence she may purchase for herself a beautiful coat with wide fur-bordered sleeves, a fur collar and luxurious comfort written in every line. Their materials have fanciful names such as "Glorianna," "Yulinda," "Mariano," but they combine warmth with the soft texture of silk velvet. Or one may buy a coat for rough service, a mannish one of tweed with lines as simple as in a masculine overcoat and an air convincingly brisk and businesslike. The most delightful discovery of all was, made as a result of a simple question "How do you know what to buy?".

"I know my customers," answered one merchant.

It's a pleasant idea that one may go there and find a coat selected particularly for her needs from the wealth of the New York display rooms.

The frocks in poiret twill are suitable for morning or afternoon. They burst into vogue with the first chill wind of autumn and have none of the languorous grace of the silks but the atmosphere of vigorous youth and a buoyant spirit. They have only one other characteristic in common and that is the impeccable good taste of simplicity, otherwise their variety gives much opportunity for the expressions of individuality. The twelve year old may find models designed especially for that age, the mature women may have a gown characterized by her own gracious dignity.

Goods of All Colors

But the place of all places to intrigue the fancy—to stir the imagination—is the dress goods counter. Don't buy a piece of cloth without learning the name of its color! There is a story in every color. "Genoese" is a dusky red such as the nobles of old Genoa wore when their ships carried the wealth of the Mediterranean trade. There are browns, "Malay," warm and mystic; "Fallow," like the earth of a fallow field; "Koran" is the ancient red of an antique oriental rug, and the blues are from "Sorrento," "Hawaii," and the "Tyrol." Nor are the delicate colors found in silks and chiffons less intriguing "ivory," "azure," "maize," "cloud" and "eglantine."

One looks at a sample sheet and wonders how, from so fascinating an array, anyone could choose. But the buyer has done it and counters and shelves show infinite variety. He has moreover understood the local shoppers' desire for exclusive materials by buying many beautiful fabrics in short lengths. He has made it possible for some few to have such delightful things as spangled overdresses, black, opalescent or iridescent blue shining like a peacock's breast in the sunlight. He has brought the first promise of those chiffon velvets which will characterize the frocks of winter. There is one pattern length of chenile velvet, a lovely deep rose.

Flung together in the counters' disorder nothing is more riotous in color nor extravagant in fancy than the printed silks. The patterns of old Arabian borrowed from the palace hangings of a caliph or the saddle rug of a desert horseman are found in stuffs adaptable to the most original uses of the dress designer.

Whatever the shopper's mood recent years have trained her in thrift and she will be glad to discover how much lower prices are now than at this time last fall. Particularly is this to be observed in dress materials and in the ready-made dresses. One may sympathize politely with the merchant who sighs a bit over this condition but it is a situation that soothes the purchasers' thrifty conscience and prepares the mind for relaxation into joyous orgy of buying.

PURE COAL LAW IS URGED BY BADGERS AT ENGINEER MEET

Propose Law to Require Label Giving Heat Value of Each Ton of Coal Sold

DES MOINES, Ia.—A national law requiring coal dealers to give the heat value of each ton of coal at the mines was proposed by the Wisconsin delgation at the national convention of stationary engineers here today.

The resolution was opposed by the eastern delegates on the ground that it would increase the fuel costs to the consumer because it would require the employment of inspectors to analyze the coal.

Western and southern delegates supported the measure. State Deputy R. D. Holbrook of Ames spoke in favor of the resolution. He declared the consumers had benefitted by passage of national pure food laws and that he believed the consumer would also be benefited by passage of a "coal labeling law" by congress.

The resolution which is similar to one recently adopted by the Wisconsin state convention of engineers, declares:

"That this organization is in favor of a national law requiring that all coal produced and shipped by the mines of this country, be accompanied by a certified copy of analysis and heat value of the shipment."

The measure was referred to the resolutions committee with instructions to report it back to the full convention tomorrow.

BAKERS OBJECT TO U. S. STANDARD FOR LOAVES OF BREAD

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Wisconsin bakers object to the attempts of the government sealers of weights and measures to standardize the loaf of bread in the United States, according to Joseph Poehlman, president of the Wisconsin Master Bakers' association, which concluded the eighteenth annual convention of the association here Tuesday night.

Mr. Poehlman was re-elected president of the association. Other officers include Christ Sorenson, Racine, vice president; J. W. Pinzer, Milwaukee, secretary. Peter Norregard, Kenosha, was elected a director. The 1923 convention will be held in Oshkosh.

AUTOISTS FINED IN LOCAL POLICE COURT

Two charges of speeding and three for turning a short corner were heard in police court here. Fred Harmon and Adolph Nissalke, charged with speeding, were fined $12.50 each, while Peter Canteer, Chas. Linker and John Kritchmer were fined $3.50 on charges of turning a short corner.

USTRIKE TO END IF RAILROADS MEET TERMS

Daugherty and his aides that an alleged conspiracy for the destruction of interstate traffic exists would be a vital factor in determining whether the unions were entitled to modification of the order.

Seek to Speed Up Case

CHICAGO.—By The Associated Press.—Efforts of the attorneys for the striking shop croft lenders to forestall the reading of additional hundreds of the 20,000 affidavits of violence produced by the government in support of its injunction bill, failed again Wednesday.

The government rejected all overtures for speeding up the case by eliminating or classifying the affidavits and Judge Wilkerson sustained the prosecution's right to the broadest latitude in its effort to show by a chain of nation-wide outbreaks what it claims is a concerted conspiracy to destroy interstate traffic by intimidation of railway employes.

U. S. Warned of Time Limit

The court took occasion, however, to warn attorneys for the government that the temporary restraining order now in force will expire September 22 and cannot be extended even if the present hearing on an injunction to replace it is not completed.

Blackburn Esterline, assistant solicitor general assured the court the government could complete its case before the time limit expired.

D. R. Richberg, attorney for B. M. Jewell, and John Scott, president and secretary treasurer, respectively, of the shop crafts organization, made several attempts to check the continued story of assault and intimidation of men who replaced the strikers.

The discussion revealed that all the evidence being presented by the government has been gathered since the temporary restraining order was issued on September 1.

U. S. COURTS HAVE STOLEN RIGHTS OF LABOR--MORRISON

Hits "Government by Injunction" in Talk to Printers' Convention

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — "The United States courts have filched many of the rights of the American Federation of Labor given them by legislative enactment," declared Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, in addressing Wednesday's session of the International Typographical Union.

"We approve of government by law, but oppose government by injunction. Big money interests alarm the public. They say the public has rights. Yes, they have, but when that public will not stand for men and women not having coal and food, and unemployment generally, then those rights are infringed upon."

Mr. Morrison denounced the I. W. W. and added "As long as we have I. W. W. employers we will have I. W. W. agitators."

He advocated old age pensions and lauded the movement for the reduction of hours from 50 to 44. He also favored the establishment of a daily paper to give the union side of the labor movement.

GREEN RAY FROM THE SETTING SUN

The fad of the moment in England is watching for the green ray from the sun which is shot out for a second or two just as the rim disappears below the horizon. You may also see the sun's rim turn green or bluish-green; but it is the flash you should watch for. The Scots in the Western Highlands know the green flash. They cherish a belief that any person who has seen it not only knows his or her own heart, but can see clearly into the hearts of others.

Summer tourists all over the British Isles are looking for the green ray and parties are seen seeking positions of vantage where they can get the best look at the parting orb. Observations are exchanged later and those who claim to have seen it are closely questioned by others. The green ray is not exactly a new discovery but there is a great revival of interest in the alleged phenomenon. Dr. Molder, a Dutch scientist has just written an elaborate book on the green ray, and says he saw it at Ilfracombe in July, 1907. The late Lord Kelvin and Sir Henry Miers of Manchester are other witnesses.

In 1882 Jules Verne published a remarkable novel on the rare phenomenon. The heroine was a young Scottish girl, who was determined to see the ray. She saw it at last, from one of the caves of Staffa. Having seen it, she saw into her heart and the heart of her lover.

MARRIAGE VS. BUSINESS

More and more young women are being trained for some definite work today. They follow high school with college and vocational work, and when they are educated they are equipped to fill a good position and draw a good salary.

Such women are not willing to give up their independent incomes when they marry. They do not care to throw their education and fitness into the discard and be satisfied with keeping house and living on the money made by the man they marry; especially they are not willing to take what he chooses to give them as speding money. This may or may not be fortunate; it certainly is a fact, and one that takes a wider significance with every passing year.—Exchange.

EFFICIENCY FIRST

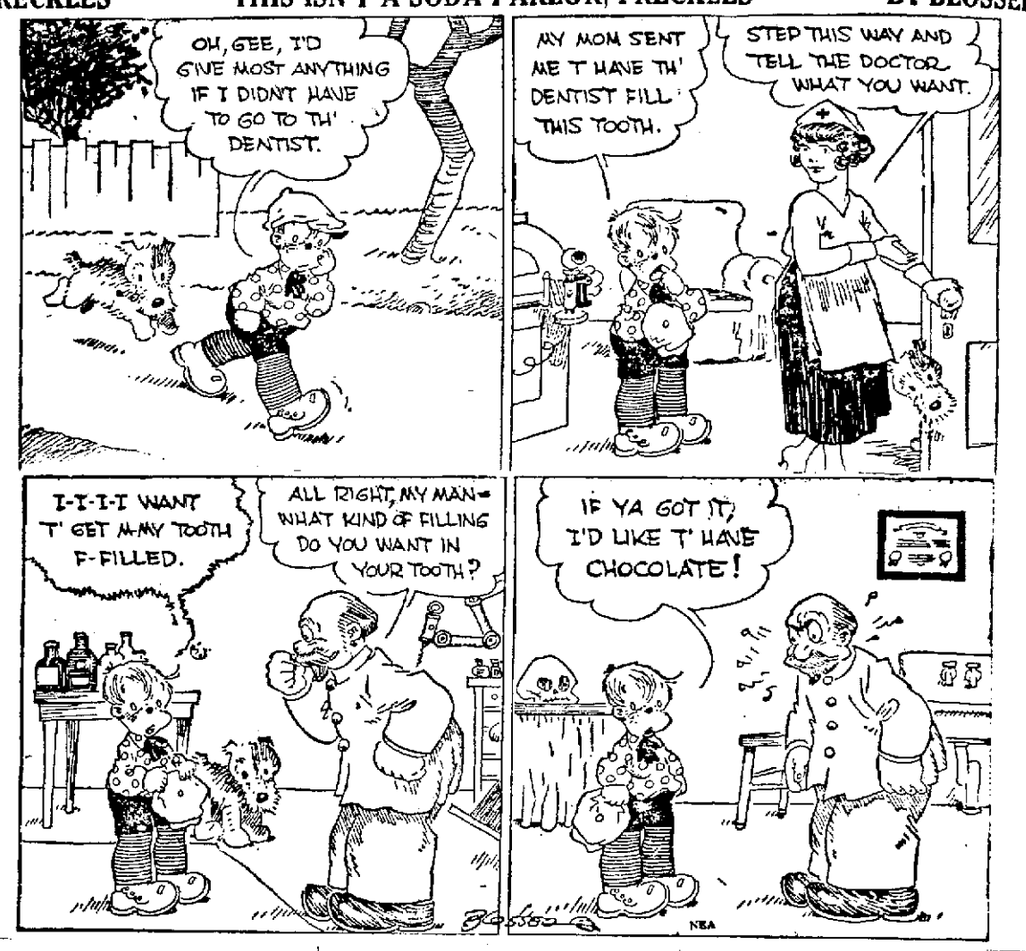

An applicant for work at the Ford plant asked a veteran Ford employe if it were true that the company was always finding methods of speeding up production by using fewer men. The veteran replied:

"Most certainly. In fact," he continued, "I just had a dream which illustrates the point. Mr. Ford was dead and I could see the pall-bearers carrying his body. Suddenly the procession stopped. Mr. Ford had come to life. As soon as the casket was opened he sat upright, and, on seeing six pallbearers, cried out at once. "Put this casket on wheels and lay off five men."—Wall Street Journal.

OBITUARY

MRS. BARNHARD RHYME

Word has been received here of the death at Bonaparte, Ia., of Mrs. Barnhart Rhyme, a former resident of La Crosse county.

Christian Irene Amborn was born on December 19, 1855, at Neithsmalk, Saxony, Germany. She was christened on December 26 of the same year and on March 27 she was confirmed and taken into the German Lutheran church.

On May 4, 1875, she was united in marriage with Mr. Barnhard Rhyme and to this union were born eleven children, six of whom preceded her in death, three having died in Germany and three in this country. In 1884 she came to this country with her husband and two children. They lived near Mindora, Wis., until 1918 when they went to Bonaparte, Iowa, and then to Clark county, Mo., near Acasto, where she died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elsie Sargeant, on Sept. 2, 1922, at the age of 66 years, 8 months and 15 days.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and five children, August of Mindora, Wis., Mrs. Cora Dounelly of Bonaparte, Iowa, Mrs. Nancy Holberg of La Crosse, Wis., William of Story City, Iowa, and Mrs. Elsie Sargeant of Clark county, Mo., with whom she made her home. She also leaves thirteen grandchildren and a host of friends. A devoted wife and mother is gone, but she lives in our memories.

DYE EMBARGO FOES LOSE THEIR FIGHT ON TARIFF CLAUSE

Claim that Conferees Had no Right to Put Provision Back Overruled by Speaker

WASHINGTON.—Opponents of a dye embargo lost Wednesday in the house in the first phase of their fight to have that provision stricken out of the tariff bill.

Speaker Gillett over-ruled a point of order by Representative Fish, republican, New York, that the conferees exceeded their authority in writing the embargo back into the bill after both house and senate had voted it out. An appeal was taken from that but by a vote of 159 to 147 the appeal was laid on the table.

MRS. HARDING IS IMPROVING RAPIDLY REPORTS PHYSICIAN

WASHINGTON.—General appearances indicate as rapid improvement in Mrs. Harding's condition as can reasonably be expected, a bulletin issued at the white house shortly after nine o'clock Wednesday said.

Fire engines were used by the Romans, though no account of their construction is known.

CAMPAIGN FOR THE PLACE OF SPEAKER ALREADY UNDER WAY

Matheson Writes to Members of Assembly Asking Support; Dahl to Oppose Him

MADISON, Wis.—With the platform convention next Tuesday the contest over the speakership of the next Assembly will have been started. Assemblyman A. J. Matheson of Janesville has sent letters to members of the legislature urging them to support him for Speaker. John L. Dahl, assemblyman from Barron county, will be the progressive republican candidate for that place.

Dahl was the administration floor leader at the last session and won distinction in the House by his bill to remove the secrecy clause from the income tax law and for his championship of the bill giving equal rights to women. Mr. Matheson was his opponent in debate on both of these important measures.

There are over fifty former members of the legislature who have been renominated. If most of those are elected Dahl will have a good chance to win the Speakership. Conferences will be held here at the platform convention regarding the speakership contest and also to map out a plan to govern the session of the legislature. It is the belief of progressive members that if the progressive assemblyman are elected in the districts in which they have been nominated that there will be a sufficient majority in the legislature to push Governor Blaine's program through without delay. Their object is to set a standard and see if the legislative work cannot be accomplished before May first.

VIROQUA SCHOOLS CROWDED; LARGEST ENROLLMENT IN CITY

VIROQUA, Wis.—The Viroqua public schools opened Monday morning with the largest enrollment in the history of the school. Three hundred and four students have enrolled in the high school and more are expected to enter by the end of the following week. There were not desks enough to accommodate the students on the first day. In order to house the grade pupils, it was necessary to use the former high school English recitation room for the first grade, and to use every available space in all the buildings. The kindergarten is conducted in the Congregational church parlor. With the building of the new high school recently voted by the school board the congested condition will be removed.

DUBLIN.—The Irish parliament expressed confidence in the government by a vote of 54 to 15.

In The MOVIES

NORMA TALMADGE—RIVOLI

Norma Talmadge, of great beauty and many talents, again registers her histrionic versatility, this time as one of the most alluring and lovable of coquettes, in her portrayal of the Duchess of Langeais in the big spectacular production of "The Eternal Flame," closing today at the Rivoli theater.

The story, by Balzac, is laid during the reign of Louis XVIII in the Second Restoration Period. It was a period of extravagant frivolities and magnificent liaisons. General Armand de Montriveau, an intimate of Napoleon, became the fashion in Paris by the strange law of contraries. A man of battles and grim realities, utterly unversed in the ways of women and love, he was an outstanding figure among the brainless coxcombs of the court, and therefore the mark of the patrician coquettes' wiles.

With the arrival of De Montriveau, the duchess contrives a conquest which changes the course of her whole life and results in a romance as splendid as that of the immortal beauties.

RIVIERA TODAY

Charles Jones and Eileen Percy in "The Fast Mail" at the Riviera Theater today end the picture by kissing out on the limb of a tree, thereby arousing the astonishment of the spectator even though he knows a picture must wind up in a kiss, preferably in some unusual position. For earlier in the course of this William Fox adaptation of Lincoln J. Carter's old melodrama they have gone through so many perils, especially in the case of Jones, that one would imagine they would choose some other place for osculation instead of going high up in a tree.

Jones, in chasing the plot all over the map, rides a horse which leaps over a railroad gate just in time to avoid being pushed over by the express; jumps lightly from the fast mail to a speeding automobile, and from one Mississippi steamboat to another, and swings out over a telegraph wire with the heroine clinging to his legs to escape a realistic fire, and altogether has as busy a day as a man can have and still remain fairly intact.

CONSTANCE BINNEY—MAJESTIC

Thrills when the heroine, walking in her sleep, rescues a child from the ledge of a sixth floor; pathos when a mother has to confess to her innocent, convent-bred daughter that she is in serious trouble due to her extravagances; romance and humor when "Prince Charming" arrives—these elements are excellently combined to make an interesting entertainment of "The Sleep Walker," which closes at the Majestic theater tonight. Constance Binney, the star, is seen to fine advantage in the part of the convent girl. A feature of the offering is the unusually clever support including Florence Roberts, famous stage star; Cleo Ridgely, a screen luminary, Jack Mulhall Bertram Grassby and Edythe Chapman, all well-known and capable players.

STRAND TODAY

Two vastly different types of women portray two different types of affection in "Blood and Sand." Rodolph Valentino's initial Paramount star picture. Lila Lee, youthful and ingenuous, evinces a love sweet and tender, while Nita Naldi, colorful and exotic, sweeps everything away with a volcanic tempestuous rush of romance.

The love of Rodolph Valentino for these women provides a series of interesting sequences in the Vicente Blasco Ibanez's story of Spanish life which June Mathis has specially adapted for the screen.

"Blood and Sand," which is a Fred Niblo production, will be the big feature at the Strand today.

CASINO TODAY

Charles Jones will be seen tonight in the Fox production, "West of Chicago," which has met with noteworthy success at the Casino Theater.

The theme of the story can be summed up in the words, "when rogues meet let honest men beware." The scenes are laid along the Mexican border.

Some of the outstanding points in this pleasing photoplay are Charles Jones' daring leap from a horse to a moving train and his laughter-provoking portrayal of a ghost, which sends some wrong-does helter skelter up a dark road.

RIVIERA MONDAY AND TUESDAY ONLY

Motion picture fans who look for exceptional photoplays will have an opportunity on Monday to see a picture which is one of the outstanding productions of the year, for on that date Rex Ingram's "The Prisoner of Zenda" will come to the Riviera Theater.

It is a story teeming with dramatic action, full of intrigue, romance and excitement. It concerns the adventures of an English gentleman one Rudolph Rassendyll, who, because of a remarkable likeness to the ruler of the mythical kingdom of Ruritania, becomes for a time its actual ruler and wins the love of the Princess Flavia.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" is the most popular romance of a generation. This was the first of the stories of romance in little kingdoms in Europe, and no better indication can be had of its success than that it inspired hundreds of writers to imitate it.

A cast of unusual excellence has been assembled for the production. Lewis Stone, Alice Terry, Robert Edeson, Stuart Holmes, Ramon Navarro, Barbara La Marr, Malcolm McGregor, Edward Connelly, Lois Lee play leading roles.

TREMPEALEAU BAY WINE THEFT CASE CALLED FOR TRIAL

Two Winona men and two from the vicinity of Centerville and Galesville are on trial in Trempealeau county court at Whitehall on a charge of "assault while armed with a dangerous weapon, with intent to rob," in connection with the alleged theft of a quantity of elderberry wine from Peter Reinard, 62 years old, caretaker of the Rose summer cottages at Trempealeau bay, the night of May 30.

The men are Edward Tracey, 22 years old, and Frank Miller, 23 years old, of Winona; William Harris, 23 years old, of Centerville, and Howard McQuane, 25 years old, residing between Galesville and Centerville.

The men were arrested after Reinard had told Winona police that four men had held him up at the point of a gun, forced him to drink a quantity of wine which he declared was drugged and then robbed him of 15 gallons of wine which he said he had made for his own use.

Chief Riebau announced after the arrests that Harris and Tracey had admitted complicity in taking a quantity of wine, but denied that Reinard had been held up with a gun or that he had been drugged. Part of the wine leaked out of one of the kegs, Chief Riebau said he was told, and the remainder was hid under the Northwestern railroad bridge at Winona. The chief said the wine was later dumped in the river by the men for fear of detection.

U. S. WAR FLEET OF WOODEN SHIPS SOLD TO WESTERN FIRM

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The government Tuesday sold its fleet of war built wooden ships, the shipping board accepting a bid of $750,000 made by George D. Perry, an attorney of the firm of Lent & Humphrey of San Francisco, for 226 of the vessels.

The bid was accepted at a competitive sale conducted by Chairman Lasker and members of the shipping board and the action leaves the government with only ten wooden ships on its hands. The ships sold today represented a cost of $300,000,000.

NEARLY 2 HUNDRED MOTOR BUSSES NOW OPERATING IN STATE

Number Has Increased to Nearly Three Times the Number Operating Last Year

MADISON, Wis.—The number of bonded carriers, passenger automobiles operated for profit, has increased to 175, all of them operating over Wisconsin roads, according to the railroad commission. This is almost treble the number operated during the early summer months.

Increase in the auto business emphasizes the importance that will be attached to legislation introduced during the 1923 legislature to curb the operation of the carriers through restrictive measures. Farmers are complaining because of the damage the heavy machines are causing on state trunk highways as they speed between cities.

The railroad commission reports that local officers are not enforcing the state laws which require compliance with restriction governing operation of the auto busses. Their use is now practically unregulated, the commission says.

INDEPENDENTS MUST FILE PAPERS BY OCTOBER 7 TO GET PLACE ON THE TICKET

MADISON, Wis.—Candidates who were defeated in the September 5 general election primaries must file nomination papers with the secretary of state on or before October 7 if they wish to enter the November general election as independent candidates for office. Similarly, any person not a candidate in the primaries who wishes to enter the political race in November must file within the same time limit.

This advice was given politicians Wednesday by Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state. He pointed out that the law requires nomination paper of independent candidates be signed by 1,000 voters from at least six counties, providing they are candidates for state office. Congressional candidates or candidates for other than state office must have the signatures of at least three per cent of the total number of electors who voted for governor in the last preceding general election in their district.

Candidates on the democratic party ticket in the primary election go on the November ballot automatically as independents under the state law if they failed to poll sufficient votes to get party representation, according to the secretary of state. It is now believed certain that democratic candidates will be unable to have a party ticket in the general election.

EVERY SORT OF SHAPE AND TRIM USED FOR HATS THIS FALL AND WINTER

In selecting the season's outfit there is nothing more important than a becoming hat. To a becoming hat and a sense of humor is attributed the success of one of America's best known, and correspondingly most successful women artists. After all the hat is the frame for the face and the face is the most interesting part of the whole picture. Therefore as we have said before, the hat is one of the most important factors in the season's scheme of clothes.

New Ideas Evidenced

For the coming winter many new ideas have been introduced by the millinery designers. They have taken all the fabrics and shapes of other seasons and used them in new and original ways to portray the mode of 1922. There will be big hats and little hats, shaped hats and crushed hats and crushed turban effects, hats without brims and hats with them, brims that are cut close to the head at the back and gradually widen by many inches as they reach the front. There will be brims that turn up and brims that turn down, there will be the demure little hat inspired by the poke bonnet our grandmothers wore, and there will be the smart and dashing turban suggested by the peasant headdresses of foreign lands.

No matter how demure the inspiration of these hats may have been there will be always an up-to-date smartness about the new versions, for they are very striking in color and fabric combinations, and the brims are tilted with a certain daring that is both chic and modern.

Striking Color Combinations

Brilliant colors, Roman stripes, metallic effects, beads, buckles, gaudy feather trimmings are all shown in the winter millinery display. A little toque that is being worn by one of the best known actresses is a very small wrapped turban in which are successfully and brightly combined a Roman striped ribbon with red predominating and the same vivid color in kid. At the front the only trimming is a large ornamental pin that is pushed through at a very effective angle.

A mushroom that combines felt and a metal ribbon in an interesting way is developed in jade and silver. The large crown is made of the felt and the brim gives a checker board effect by means of interlaced strips of the felt and a narrow silver ribbon. Felt holds its own persistently in the millinery world and appears on many of the newer models in combination with other fabrics, notably velvet, kid and the metal edged or entirely metal ribbons.

It is also used for flowers, some of which are cut out and applied flatly to the hats, others are made more realistic and put on in bunches or in wreaths. Perhaps the most novel of them all is the big calla lily that wraps itself about a center of yellow chenille.

Felts Much Liked

Felt fringes too are good and many of them are tipped with metal, sealing wax or nail heads to lend a sparkle to the winter bonnet. Perforated felt brims are shown either faced with contrasting color and fabric, or left for the narrow metal ribbons to lace themselves through the perforations.

Sport hats of felt are still good and one with a crushy crown upturns a rolling brim which is edged with an overlapping row of many colored felt disks edged with silver sealing wax.

While the interlaced effect described on the mushroom sailor is very popular, felt is often seen cut out in designs and applied flat to the brim and crown of the hat which retains a simple silhouette, and requires no other trimming.

Ribbons Effectively Used

Ribbons are used in many different ways. They are gathered and put on as facings to the small toques. They are made into flower-like rosettes, and are interlaced through the slashed brims and crowns of the simple hats. In their narrowest version they are used to carry out very interesting embroidery patterns combined with beads, with appliqued motifs of velvet, felt or kid.

The use of kid, of patent leather and suede is one of the outstanding features in the display for fall and very novel and imaginative effects have been attained by the clever use of them. They form facings of brimmed hats, are crushed in combination with gay striped materials of silk persuasion to form the soft toques that come from the Oriental headdresses, they are cut out in any number of fantastic silhouettes to paste themselves flat against a background of velvet, of silk, or of felt.

Fringes of leathers and suedes tipped with bright metal nail heads form a unique trimming for the models with upturned brims.

Unusual Embroidered Designs

Embroidery has proved its charm by enduring many seasons, and it promises to outdo all its own previous records in color and design for the coming season. Worked out in chenille, worsted yarn, in narrow ribbons, in metal thread, combined with beads of all kinds, with cutouts of fabric that contrast with the material of which the hat itself is made, embroidery lends itself most attractively to the winter mode.

Duvetyn in combination with silk or baronette satin in both the high colors and the more somber shades, promises to be good for fall. Bright colors will predominate for street wear, but there will always be the generous number of more dressy hats made on large, blocked lines for the more formal occasions and these for the most part will be of black with colorful trimming saving that of self color for popularity.

Feathers are Smart

Ostrich will claim a place for itself on the winter millinery and will appear in conventionalized novelties rather than in the sweeping plumes.

Pheasant quills will be very popular as will the glycerined ostrich and the burnt peacock.

Trimmings will show great ingenuity of design and flowers made of yarn and angora, of felt, chenille, tinsel, jet and other materials will all make an appearance during the season. One bunch of fruit that is important is made of cork, painted in the pastel shades, in very lovely tones. The fruit and the foliage are both cut from the smooth cork and painted a flat color.

Belt-like bands that end at the front with elaborate and colorful buckles or cabochons will surround many a crown, and the crowns will be very large and high on many of the hats while others will follow rather closely the outline of the head itself.

Many Unusual Effects

To sum the whole display of winter millinery it might be said that hats of every size and every shape will be good, trimmed in the most unexpected trimmings, but on in the most surprising ways, but the keynote of the whole fashion decree in hats is color. Color in vivid shades, and every shade of the spectrum asserts itself either alone or in combination with other shades.

As far as my lady's hats are concerned the season promises to be a gay one.

WE REJECT BEST PART OF GRAIN

The modern milling process is responsible for the rejection of the best and most nourishing part of the grain, according to Dr. E. V. McCollum. Consumers demand white flour, the only reason being that it looks better. As a matter of fact, the price of the color is the extraction of the most nourishing part of the grain. The milling wheel cracks the kernel up into small particles but the germ of embryo, being of a slightly plastic or oily nature, does not grind up into a powder as the remainder does. The bran portion is rich in mineral salts, not abundant in that portion which goes into the bolted white flour. The same is true of milling corn and rice where a high price is paid for the mere appearance of the product. This condition is encouraged to a great extent by the millers for the reason that it is the present custom to mill in quantities and to keep the material in storage. The white flour keeps much better an dtherefore suits the purpose of the dealer better. The old custom was for the farmer to have his grain ground as it was wanted so that there was no reason for holding it in storage.

Huge Ice Cream Freezer

An ice cream freezer which turns out one hundred quarts at a time was built by a stage carpenter at a Los Angeles studio. It is operated by electricity, but to give the apparatus the appearance of a real freezer a crank handle was put on it which is over the head of a person of ordinary height.

Didn't Enjoy It

Young Harley was home for a few days from a cruise with the merchant marine. "Well," said the man from the home town genially, "how have you been enjoying maritime life?" "I haven't been enjoying it at all, sir," answered the youngster, blushing, "she broke the engagement."—Pioneer Enterprise.

COATS AND WRAPS TWIN ASPIRANTS FOR FUR HONORS

Every Known Fur and Some Not Known Come this Season

Every fur that has even been seen before will be seen again this year and some perhaps that have not been used as wearing apparel, or as a trimming for suits and gowns will be brought forth and fashioned into something to adorn the stylish woman for the winter of 1922.

Coats and wraps will vie with one another for first place and both will be shown. For day time wear the coat is perhaps the smarter after several seasons of delmaas, but for the dressy occasion and the evening affairs the cape is the wrap of preference.

Long Fur Capes

These capes for evening wear are made of mole, of seal, of ermine, kolinsky and other short nap furs trimmed with deep cape like collars or scarf shaped revers. Many of them are gathered full on a yoke that fits snugly about the shoulders and they grow wider and wider as they near the bottom of the garment.

Linings for the capes are all the light shades. Some of them are the soft silks or satins embroidered in large designs, trimmed with contrasting ruches of narrow ribbons. Others are the brocades with the designs woven into the fabric, shown on some of them in the one color, in others in contrasting colors. The metal fabrics in the delicate shades are also shown trimmed with pleatings of chiffon applied in stripes near the bottom of the garment. At either side of these bands are often shown bands of metal galoon, or narrow metal edged ribbons shirred as a finish.

Sleeves Much Abbreviated

Sleeves in these wraps, if they could be called sleeves, are either just slits or are slits edged with narrow bands to match the fur of which the cape collar is made.

One lovely coat made of ermine is shaped to fit the shoulders as closely as would a fitted yoke and then falls in circling fullness to the heels of the woman who wears it. The bands protect themselves from the wintry blast in cuffs that band the splits in the sides of the cape and form the semblance of a muff when the hands are held together at the front.

This lovely cape of fur is lined with turquoise chiffon shirred and puffed in the most fascinating and intricate way.

Squirrel for Evening Wear

Squirrel too, is considered very smart for evening wear and a wrap that attains its widest at the elbow is made of this fur and wraps about the figure, giving it a barrel shaped silhouette. There are not even slits for the hands in this model, but the collar stands high about the head without doubling back or crushing. It is lined with jade brocade banded with gold galoon.

The fur is cut and sewed together so that it forms a wide band of stripped effect about the middle of the wrap.

Day time wraps of fur are made of the darker pelts, seal, kolinsky, sable and mink. They are both capes and coats, and are particularly attractive in the unusual use of the fur and the workmanship by which it is cut in stripes and sewed together forming squares, fan flares, and other designs.

Many of these garments are trimmed with the longer furs as fox, marten, fitch and wolf which form large collars and deep cuffs as well as wide bands about the skirt of the coat or cape.

Elaborate Girdles Used

The fur coats are made with deep arm holes, long waist lines, huge rolling collars and are girdled with metal girdles, many of which are jeweled and buckled with very pretentious fastenings.

Long heavy silk cords that end with large fancy tassels are also shown on the winter coats and seem to be the most popular of all girdles, though not so individual as some.

Girdles in the bright colors are developed in kid, suede and the leathers in all the high shades. In some of them patent leather is effectively used. They are perforated in interesting designs, lined with contrasting color of heavy silk or metal cloth and many of them are trimmed with the big brass or nickel nail heads. Buckles that close at the front are made of either the metal to match the trimming of the belt, or covered with the same fabric as the belt itself. Some of them hook or loop and fall to long tassels made of the kid or suede.

Striking Color Contrasts

On some of the most unusual models, silk girdles are shown. Some of them are wide and crushed and others are narrow and faced with contrasting color that shows a bit at the edges. The collar of many of these are held close about the throat with corresponding ties that catch at the front or side in small bows that lend a bit of becoming color.

Blousy backs and straight front effects are also shown in the fur coats and a few are fitted closely to the figure to the waist and then permitted to flare in a full circular skirt.

Sleeves too, assume a circular fullness and are finished inside the cuff with linings that shir on elastics tightly about the wrist.

Fur Coats for Sports

For more practical purposes and for the winter motor coats the raccoon and the muskrat are still favorites and nothing in the more dressy furs seem able to take their places with the woman who is out a great deal either for business or for pleasure. They are made to hang full from the shoulder with long loose sleeves and deep shawl collars and are made with the belt which may be used or not according to the whim of the wearer.

Carp are said to reach the century mark in age.

THE FOLLIES OF FASHION

Your modern dress designer is like a newspaper editor—always on the hunt for something new and novel which will appeal to the whim and fancy of his clientele, yet knowing full well that what he creates today will be discarded for something different tomorrow.

True, some recent fashions have called for stern condemnation on the part of well-known divines, such as Father Vaughan's and others. Such censuring of women's apparel is by no means new. In the twelfth century the devil was represented by an old illustrator in the costume of a fine lady with the long, hanging sleeves and tightly-laced bodice of the time. A hundred years later English preachers took exception to laced opening through which the ladies showed their costly lingerie, and condemned them in strong language.

It is somewhat strange that periods of depression have been followed by fashions of the gayest. After the civil wars, in the time of Charles II, ladies resorted to dresses which would put the recent bareback style and transparent draperies in the shade. After the French revolution, when the reign of terror was over, the merveilleuses went back to the dresses of antiquity, such as the Athenian costume and that of the Lacedemonian girls.

The sartorius is the longest muscle in the body.

The Quality Corner. Third and Pear

"I knew him when he was a boy"

What one is there of us that has not felt the glow of satisfaction over the outstanding success of a life-long friend! Often a surprise—seemingly "all of a sudden." Yet neither surprising nor sudden, when you stop to think back over each step of his progress.

THE United States Rubber Company—makers of U. S. Royal Cords—were first to conceive, make and announce the balanced tire. A tire in which there is such complete unity of action in tread and carcass that neither will give way before the other.

First to conceive, make and announce a complete line of tires—a tire for every need of price and use under one standard of quality.

First to tell the public about the good and bad in tire-retailing. (You remember the phrase "Go to a legitimate dealer and get a legitimate tire.")

First also to arouse industrial and trade minds to the need of a new kind of tire competition. (Competition for better and better values. Greater and greater public confidence.)

* * *

THESE high spots along the U. S. road to leadership indicate the intent—the will to win by the quality route in a price market.

Now that so many car-owners have given their verdict for quality tires in general, and U. S. Tires in particular—a number of dealers and car-owners whose vision has been clouded by "discounts," "sales" and what not, are beginning to remember that they "knew him when he was a boy."

HIGH COURT TO RULE ON PRISON TERM OF MILWAUKEE CONVICT

Will Decide Question of Whether McDonald Has Completed His Sentence

MADISON, Wis.—Elmer McDonald of Milwaukee, a convict at Waupun, will be brought before the Wisconsin Supreme Court Friday afternoon when arguments will be made to determine whether he has completed his sentence at the penitentiary. McDonald, alias Robert L. Borton, was found guilty in the municipal court of Milwaukee on Nov. 5, 1908, with assault with intent to rob, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of twelve years.

After serving seven years of his sentence McDonald was released on parole July 31, 1915. While on parole he was again arrested and charged with the crime of burglary. Instead of merely terminating his parole and sending him to Waupun he was tried on the new charge and found guilty, Nov. 30, 1915. He was again sentenced to a second term of twelve years at Waupun. On Oct. 1, 1918, his second sentence was commuted to a term of six years by Gov. Philipp. The second term, counting the time of good behavior allowed him, expired on Feb. 25, 1920. He was not released but was retained by the prison authorities to serve out what the prison officials considered to be the balance of his first sentence.

McDonald is now serving out the five years of his first sentence which the prison authorities under their rules have held should be tacked on to the expiration of his second period of imprisonment.

The sole question in this case is: "Did the first term of sentence, the prisoner having already served seven years, suddenly cease to run so that prison authorities had the right to tack to the end of his second term the unexpired portion of his first term?"

Assistant Attorney General J. E. Messerschmidt has taken the position that McDonald must serve out the balance of his first term. Arthur H. Barteldt, Milwaukee, believes as a legal proposition that McDonald's term has long since expired. During the summer vacation of the Supreme Court Barteldt secured an order signed by Justice M. B. Rosenberry to show cause why McDonald should not be released. Arguments were made in the matter in the Supreme Court on Tuesday and an order was issued requiring Warden Coles of the penitentiary to bring the prisoner into court Friday afternoon.

Barteldt charges that the McDonald case is one of double imprisonment. He points out that McDonald was on parole when he was tried a second time and given a second sentence at a time when the first sentence had not expired.

"As a matter of fairness and justice," declared Mr. Barteldt, "we submit that this practice of double punishment as evidenced in the case of Elmer McDonald, cannot and should not be permitted. There is nothing in the record to show that the first sentence stopped running. If it did not, it too expired in 1920 and the present detention of the prisoner is unlawful and the prayer of the petition should be granted."

SEVERAL IMPORTANT STATE POSTS TO BE FILLED NEXT YEAR

Blaine, if Re-elected, Will Have a Number of $5,000 a Year Places to Fill

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—The lull in the political open season that precedes the November general election is bringing out the bi-annual discussion of appointments that are to be made by the incoming administration as the terms of important administrative officers in Wisconsin's government expire early next year.

If re-elected, Governor Blaine will have a number of $5,000 a year state positions to fill. Appointment of his followers will give the governor control of several commissions which now have a majority of members named during the Philipp administration for six year terms. It is believed here that in some cases the commissioners will be retained in office.

Directorship of the important department of agriculture will be open in February when the term of C. P. Norgord, for the past six years commissioner of agriculture, expires. This office carries with it a salary of $5,000 and a six year term.

The term of George B. Harris, president of the state board of control, is completed in April of next year leaving open another $5,000 a year position. Two of the three members of the present board are appointees of Governor Blaine.

Henry R. Trumbower, one of the three railroad commissioners, completes his six year term in February, 1923. It is thought here that the governor is considering reappointment of Mr. Trumbower who before his appointment to the commission was a professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin.

J. D. Morrissey, superintendent of public property, an appointee of Governor Blaine whose term expires on January 1 will probably be reappointed, as will Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets, according to expression from followers of the governor.

The term of C. L. Harrington, conservation commissioner in charge of the forestry division, ends in February, while that of Marshal Cousins, commissioner of banking, is completed in May, and that of Platt Whitman, commissioner of insurance, in July.

Two appointments will be made to the board of university regents by the governor early in the year when the terms of Mrs. Florence G. Buckstaff of Oshkosh and Peter Bituon of Superior, expire. Control of the regents will go to the administration with appointment to these positions.

In addition to these appointments to positions on the most important of state administrative commissions and boards, the governor will have vacancies to fill on a number of the minor state boards.

Under the Wisconsin system of commission government where departments are headed by more than one member, the terms expire on alternate years. Sweeping changes in the administration of state government are prevented by this arrangement which gives new commissioners an opportunity to work into their new duties under the tutelage of the older members.

It is known that consideration is already being given to possible successors of some of the commissioners whose terms will soon expire.

MONROE SCHOOLGIRL IS SECOND IN STATE FAIR SPELLING BEE

Hazel Wallace Close Rival of Trempealeau Pupil for First Honors in State Contest

SPARTA, Wis.—Although Trempealeau won first place, a Monroe county girl won second place, in the state spelling, penmanship and arithmetic contest, at the state fair, her standing being only .25 less than that of the Trempealeau county girl. Miss Hazel Wallace, 13-year-old graduate of the Jenkins Valley school of the Town of Little Falls, achieved this honor for herself and for those who had part in her education. Her standings in spelling, arithmetic, and penmanship totaled 91 per cent. There were 37 boys and girls in the contest, the best students in the rural schools in their respective communities. Hazel Wallace was presented with a handsome silver medal by the Fair Board in recognition of her achievements.

This is the first year that Monroe County rural schools have taken part in the contests at the state fair. Monroe county was also represented at the fair by the Girls' and Boys' Calf club and by the Canning club.

Road Committee Back

The members of the Monroe county road and bridge committee: Joseph Brown and Earl Hall, accompanied by Highway Commissioner Charles Millard and Superintendent of Patrols, J. C. Tucker returned home Saturday from an auto trip through the northern part of the state, where they looked over the roads and road construction in that section. In this county road building material has for the most part, to be brought in here and is therefore expensive, and the work on the roads is considerable more costly than in sections where the soil is different and natural gravel beds close at hand.

Sunday evening was the last meeting of the Community gatherings which have been held on the lawn at the Court House square, every Sunday evening for the past two months. The meetings have been largely attended.

Last Service is Musical

The last service was entirely musical. From seven until eight o'clock, the Sparta band entertained the large audience, and from eight until nine the large chorus choir of the Congregational church, directed by Prof. James R. Kerr of La Crosse, gave a pleasing program. The program consisted of three chorus numbers, two selections by a large male chorus, and a solo by Mr. Kerr, Mrs. Kerr accompanied him.

The public schools in the city opened for enrollment Monday morning, the high school students reporting at the Armory. Grades formerly in the Central Ward building will occupy the rooms in the two large army barracks, which contain eight rooms. High school students will occupy the Ward school. There will be a Central Ward Kindergarten in the Ady building.

Because of the threatened shortage of coal, the hospital authorities in this city are installing a crude oil burning apparatus in St. Mary's hospital, and will use that method of heating hereafter, instead of depending on the coal supply. J. H. Kane of Carroll, Iowa, is installing the new heating plant in the furnaces. He expects to have the work completed in another week.

The hand printing press of 1601 would produce about 700 small sheets in 10 hours.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

CONSERVATISM IS AUTUMN KEYNOTE IN MEN'S CLOTHES

Double-breasted Coats Coming Back Stronger than Ever

OVERCOATS TO BE LOOSE AND ROOMY THIS YEAR

Fur Not Strong in Coats for Men

While simplicity and conservatism continue to rule men's fashion in clothing this fall there is a tendency to break away from some of the austere lines that have dominated the designs of the last few seasons.

Novelties will be pushed to the background, particularly in the apparel for the better dressed man, although the jazz and rah rah models which had a splurge this last Spring will be the main lines of some of the cheaper manufacturers.

All efforts to bring forth anything that is out of the ordinary have been rebuffed and the pendulum of style always swings back to the plainer and more dignified models. While women's clothes undergo radical changes from season to season men's apparel follow certain lines with almost religious fidelity.

Style Changes Noted

Here are the most notable changes which will appear in the three important groups for men's clothing:

The first long trousers, commonly called high school or prep suit, running in sizes up to 37, show high waists, narrower coats, draped skirts; one and two button coats with peaked lapels. Some have slanting pockets; others have regular patch pockets in front.

The coats are high chested, with square shoulders. These are the stylish modifications of the extreme coats that have been prevalent earlier this year and are shown in both the double and single breasted styles.

The second group leans toward the regularly fitted models, with two and three button coats.

The third group promises to show the widest range of change and if advance information is correct is expected to be the most popular. The coats are of the looser type, with softer construction of fronts. They are made with three and four buttons and have regular pockets.

The three button coats are identical with the four except for the wider spacing of the buttons. These coats carry a short roll lapel short straight vent, and are worn much looser than other types.

As for prices, costs are practically stable. The manufacturer has passed through the period of readjustment and has placed his business in order. Unless the unexpected happens there will be no radical price changes for another year or two.

Like Double-breasteds

The vogue of the double-breasted coat promises to be as popular as last year when there was a greater demand for such style than there had been for several previous seasons. Although they will not be featured with any decided emphasis they will receive more than their share of attention.

As for the trousers of most suits the style apparently has reached a happy medium. Neither the tight bottom nor bell-shaped trouser legs are to be worn extensively, but the general tendency will be styles that are straighter than heretofore. In some instances no cuffs are worn.

Darker Colors the Vogue

As for colors there will be no partiality shown, although the darker shades naturally will have the call. But there promises to be more of the lighter tones shown than ever. Brown, which is as staple as sugar, as well as blue will be as strong as ever. There will be an ample presentation of grays, greens and mixtures.

The stripe idea in patterns which has been favorably received in recent seasons will continue in popularity, but there will be a slight variation of this idea in which there will be a combination of checks with stripes. Most of these designs are small and dignified.

There also will be shown a choice variety of the new diamond weaves, which originally was used in Overcoatings, but of course, in larger designs.

Loose Raglan Effects

As for overcoats the style tendency is toward the loose raglan effects and the large English type ulsters, with half or full belts. Many will have the convertible collars and patch pockets; some are made with plain backs. Others will have yokes and inverted plaits.

The new things in young Men's Overcoats will be a full coat, forty-four inches long, with regular shoulders, small self collar and lapel. The sleeves are plain; there are three patch pockets and they have button through or fly fronts. This is the new type for college men who substitute an angora muffler for a storm collar.

Detachable Collars Favored

Fur-lined coats, of course, will be worn only in the coldest sort of weather and largely by motorists who are out a great deal. Since it appears that reduced prices of fur would make one believe that fur will be used more extensively than ever, the reverse is the condition, due largely to the trend of conservatism.

BREAD MAKES OUR TEETH DECAY

The general belief that the consumption of jams, jellies and such sweets are responsible for the progress of decay in our teeth, has not been borne out by experiments which were made at the Hygienic Institute of the Leipsic university. On the other hand it was indicated that bread was responsible for such troubles. This was shown by taking perfectly sound teeth and coating them with wax, into which an aperture was made at one point or another, and these were then subjected to an immersion in a mixture of bread and saliva at a temperature of 37 degrees Centigrade. At the end of thirty-three days many of the teeth showed signs of softening at the exposed points; while twenty-three days later all showed the softening signs. At the end of 124 days completely developed caries were developed in all the teeth under experiment. A similar test with jams and jellies resulted in a complete vindication of the sweets for the same length of time showed that the fruit acids and the perfumed acids of the preserves had no effect upon the teeth whatever.

LODGE, POINDEXTER AND TOWNSEND SAFE BY GOOD MAJORITIES

Lodge Piles Up Lead of Over Hundred Thousand; Townsend Has 24,000 Majority

POINDEXTER HAS SMALL LEAD OVER FIELD OF FIVE OPPONENTS

Close Contest Indicated in Arizona Governor Race

CHICAGO, Ill.—The three republican incumbent senators involved in Tuesday's nine state primaries overcame strong opposition by apparently safe margins, according to incomplete returns available early Wednesday.

Senator Townsend of Michigan led the nearest of his three opponents, H. F. Baker, by 14,244, with the vote approximately 40 per cent complete.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts rolled up a majority of more than 126,000 over Joseph Walker in returns from 1,334 election precincts out of 1,507.

Senator Poindexter of Washington led the nearest of his five opponents, George Lamping of Seattle, by 3,154, on returns 15 per cent complete. Mrs. Frances C. Axtell was fourth in the race.

William E. Sweet of Denver led Fred A. Gabin in the democratic gubernatorial race in Colorado; Benjamin Griffith of Denver led Lieutenant Governor Earl Cooley for the republican nomination. Congressman C. C. Timberlake, apparently had won renomination in the second district.

Redfield Proctor of Proctor was apparently certain of victory over Lieutenant Governor A. W. Foote in the Vermont republican gubernatorial contest. Senatorial candidates were unopposed.

Former Governor Cole E. Blease of South Carolina was defeated in the democratic primary nomination for governor by Thomas G. McLeod in a bitter contest.

Close Race in Arizona

Supporters of C. B. Ward and former Governor G. W. P. Hunt of Arizona both were claiming victory in the race for democratic nomination for governor of Arizona with meager returns indicating a close race. Governor Campbell is unopposed for the republican nomination, and Senator Ashurst, democratic, also had no opposition for renomination.

In the Massachusetts gubernatorial contest Governor Cox had an easy victory for the republican nomination. William A. Gaston, Boston banker, was well in the lead for the democratic senatorial nomination in late returns.

Townsend Increases Lead

DETROIT, Mich.—By The Associated Press.—Senator Charles E. Townsend's lead over Herbert F. Baker for the republican senatorial nomination, was increased to more than 24,000 on the face of additional returns from Tuesday's state-wide primary. With reports from 2,010 out of 2,856 precincts in the state, the vote stood: Townsend, 110,854; Baker, 86,750; Kelley, 50,254; Emery, 41,828.

Senator Townsend's supporters accepted the verdict of Michigan republicans as an endorsement of Townsend's acts in the senate, particularly his support of Senator Truman H. Newberry while the latter was under fire. Each of Townsend's opponents used the Newberry matter as the chief issue of his campaign.

Kelley made an issue of the Newberry case, saying the state's public would have an opportunity to express its opinion as to large expenditures in political campaigns. He also urged greater economy in governmental expenditures.

Defends Newberry Campaign

Senator Townsend in campaign speeches, declared "too much money may have been spent in the Newberry campaigns but not a cent was spent illegally." He declared large expenditures were necessary to offset the support given Henry Ford, his opponent, by certain newspapers in the state. The senator confined much of his time, however, to speaking on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project, that he has espoused, and on other legislative matters.

Mr. Baker, a state senator, was loud in his denunciation of the Newberry affair, and urged repeal of the Esch Cummins railroad act and passage of legislation more favorable to farmers and other workers.

Groesbeck Renominated

Governor A. J. Groesbeck was assured of renomination, having polled a much larger vote than the total cast for his two opponents, R. H. Fletcher of Bay City and Theodore M. Joslin of Adrian. He sought renomination on his record. His opponents asserted his centralized state government plan, adopted soon after he assumed office, is "autocratic."

The vote from 1,549 precincts stood: Groesbeck, 115,641; Fletcher, 59,187; Joslin, 23,007.

In the only primary contest among the democrats, James B. Balch, former mayor of Kalamazoo is leading A. M. Cummins of Lansing for the gubernatorial nomination by a substantial majority.

Returns from 549 precincts gave: Balch, 3,752; Cummins, 2,041. Seven members of the Michigan congressional delegation appeared reasonably certain of renomination. They are E. C. Michener, J. M. C. Smith, J. C. Ketcham (unopposed); Carl E. Mapes, L. C. Cramton, J. C. McLaughlin and Roy O. Woodruff (unopposed).

In most districts where the wet and dry issue entered into the campaigns the drys were in the lead.

Poindexter Gaining

SEATTLE, Wash.—U. S. Senator Miles Poindexter, candidate to succeed himself maintained a lead of more than 12,000 votes over George Lamping, Seattle port commissioner, on the face of returns tabulated early Wednesday from 1075 precincts out of 2,446 in the state in Tuesday's republican senatorial primary.

STATE GOES AFTER INCOME TAX DODGERS ARREST MILWAUKEEAN

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—A drive to round up alleged state income tax evaders in Wisconsin has been started with arrest of Jacob Strass, Milwaukee, for failure to file his state income tax returns. The arrest was made on the complaint of the state tax commissioner.

Strass is the first person to be arrested in the state on such a charge in four years. The tax commissioner declared similar arrests may follow in rapid succession, both here and elsewhere in the state.

The charge against Strass is that he failed to file a return on his income and that he has considerable rentable property and draws a large salary from a Milwaukee corporation.

BANK IN NEW YORK LOANED FUNDS TO STRIKING MINERS

Harriman Institution Helped Out to the Extent of Two Hundred Thousand

NEW YORK.—At a time when funds for the purchase of tents and food for the striking coal miners and their families were badly needed, the Harriman National bank loaned, it was learned Tuesday, more than $200,000 to the United Mine Workers of America. The loan was made on the personal notes of officials of the union organization without collateral. It was obtained early in July.

"If they should come into this office again today in need of $5,000,000, they could have it within an hour," said Harry B. Rosen, director of the bank. "They are customers of the Harriman National bank and we deemed it our duty to help them."

Lewis Signed Notes

The officials who signed the notes were John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; P. H. Murray, vice president, and William Green, secretary-treasurer.

Joseph W. Harriman made this statement:

"The Harriman bank is a public institution and does business with corporations, individuals and all kinds of organizations, including labor organizations, railroads and coal corporations, also with Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos and some Americans, red, yellow, brown and white. In other words, without regard to race, creed or color.

"The United Mine Workers of America do banking here and have done so for some time. Their business with us has always been conducted along business lines. The nature of their transactions with us I am not more at liberty to discuss publicity than I have the right to discuss publicly the banking business of other who do business here."

Helped Bring Peace

"Indeed," Mr. Green asserted, "the Harriman bank did for us a greater service than extending the loan.

"Mr. Harriman, its president, was an important figure in the events leading up to the termination of the strike. I think this is a good opportunity to let the public know that he arranged some of the most important conferences and was one of the outstanding figures in bringing about a settlement."

Mr. Green explained that Mr. Harriman had brought the miners in touch with Secretary Hoover and the federal administration and into connection with the interests owning and controlling the mining properties.

"Under normal conditions, with the mines open and operating," Mr. Green explained, "the income of the national organization runs from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 a year. We had assets of about $700,000 in cash and bonds in the treasury when the strike was called, as well as various sums in the subdivision treasuries."

PRISON GUARDS IN DUBLIN STAND OFF IRREGULAR ATTACK

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—The national army guard at Mount Joy prison in Dublin was attacked Tuesday night by irregulars and a half hour's conflict ensued, according to reports reaching Belfast from Dublin printed by the Evening Star. Several irregulars were wounded.

ORGANIZE TEAM OF FOOTBALL PLAYERS IN FEDERAL PRISON

Inmates of Atlanta Pen Send Out Challenges to Local Football Teams

ATLANTA.—College athletes are not the only ones whose thoughts are turning to the football field. The inmates of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, after finishing a successful baseball season, already have taken up the grind that is necessary to team work on the gridiron, and have sent out a challenge for games with fast local elevens.

"We are in the field this year with a high class organization of foorball players, consisting of ex-college stars, and we would like to arrange games with some good semi-professional aggregations about the city," says the fall announcement.

For any of the 2,000 or more men at the prison to "make the team," demands great effort as the championship baseball nine has been allowed at times to play on fields beyond the grim walls surrounding the grounds of the institution, and the football stars are hoping they may get the same treatment.

There's a Reason for Everything.

"So you're not sending Eric to college?"

COLOMBIA PRESIDENT NAMES HIS DEFEATED OPPONENT TO OFFICE

Gives Rejected Candidate Place as Secretary of the Treasury

BOGOTA—General Pedro Nel Ospina, who assumed the presidency of the Republic of Colombia on the seventh of this month, has appointed a national cabinet, giving representation in it to all political parties, and surrounding himself with some of the most eminent men in his country. It is noteworthy that General Benjamin Herrera, the candidate opposing President Ospina in the recent elections, has been appointed secretary of the treasury.

Dr. Carlos A. Urueta, former minister of Colombia in the United States has been made secretary of foreign affairs.

Doctor Miguel Jimenez Lopez, a man of science and of progressive ideals, was named to head the department of the interior.

Carlos Velez Danies, owner and promoter of some of the largest industrial enterprises of Colombia, was appointed secretary of war. Mr. Danies is at present interested, together with certain American business men, in the development of a large packing-house on the Atlantic coast of Colombia.

The other departments of the government have been placed in the hands of experts along their respective lines. The department of finance has been entrusted to Felix Salazar, a prominent banker and financier, and that of public works to Alejandro Lopez, a notable engineer who is thoroughly familiar with the communications system of the country.

The new administration soon will take up the study of several proposals made by American capitalists for loans and the construction of public works.

NAVAL TESTING GROUND

The long-felt need of the Navy department for a place where new inventions that "look good" might be tried out is being met with an experimental research laboratory, down the Potomac river, seven miles from the Washington navy yard, on the grounds of the Belleyue magazine, which is expected to be in operation this summer.

The new plant, which is primarily for research purposes and particularly as a development laboratory will probably devote a great deal of attention to radio work.

Japan has 117 pencil factories employing 2,171 workmen in the industry.

LARGER RANGE OF STYLE IN MEN'S HATS; NEW BROWN-GREEN IS FAVORED

Feeling that they have been a bit behind the times in making changes, hat manufacturers this fall have evolved several innovations that will be a noticeable difference from the styles of a season ago.

Both style and color will undergo a change. Browns which have had a long, long run will share the glory of the stage with a soft shade of green—more like an olive green or a soft merging of brown and grass green.

For a hat of this shade both manufacturer and retailer see a big season, for they say that there is no reason why the green hat should not be a big seller if the shade is softened and in harmony with the many overcoating materials for fall and winter.

Wider Brims, Wider Crowns

As for shapes the tendency is toward slightly wider brims and slightly higher crowns. For the last two years the smaller brims and smaller crowns featured most headwear and according to good dressers the fall styles will be a welcome change.

One maker comes out with a rather novel style arrangement, but whether or not it will prove popular is to be seen. The style concerns the crease in soft hats. It is a modification of the telescope crease, the Alpine crease and the "front pinch." The crown is telescoped all around except in front where it is creased in Alpine fashion.

Rough Finished Hats

Rough finished mixtures in the fedora or diamond shaped styles will be prominent. The fabric hats of two-toned mixtures and scratch effects are regarded as altogether practical and comfortable and are noted for their long wear.

As for the fine felts in tans, browns, grays and the new green shades nothing need be said about these except the colorings, since they are regarded as staples in the headwear industry.

Later on with colder weather you will find more velour and beavers worn than ever. These aristocrats of the hat family are down in price and it doesn't require a large outlay to buy one now. During war days men spent as much as $30 for a very good hat.

Derbies are Staple

Derbies, of course, will make a bid for patronage among a certain class of men, who are pretty much set in their ways. As with the soft hats the brims and crowns will be slightly larger, but the change will not be appreciably noticeable.

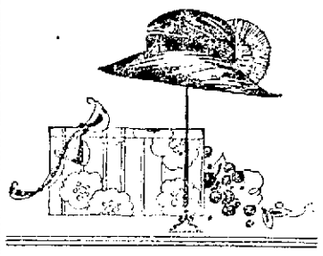

Hat bands will be about the same as last fall, with some hats showing contrasting shades. Although most hats will show the bows in the side, there still remains a few makers who will put them on the back.

Caps to Be Favored

Caps, naturally will get a big play and among the best styles are the one-piece variety, with variations as to the fitting in the back. One maker is putting out a cap make of duvetyn, but it is not believed it will meet with great success since the material will not stand up under inclement weather. Other caps are made of smart woolens, including plaids, checks and solid colors.

The fur cap business depends, of course, on severe weather, and if the winter is a hard one there is certain to be a great sale of them, particularly this season since prices are down a little.

BLOOMERS TO TAKE PLACE OF PETTICOAT IN LINGERIE MODES

Georgette and Pongee in Many Dainty Colors; and Even Gingham

"Out of sight, out of mind," cannot be said of the lingerie of the present season, for while designers of these delightful garments have been presenting ever new and more enticing bits of underapparel for our admiration and delight, they have quite outdone themselves this time. The things they offer are the kind that once seen are never forgotten, but linger in the mind of feminine persuasion, until they are added to her very own collection of dainty underthings.

Ever widening in scope of design, of fabrics used, ever trying to become more and more suitable to the outer garments worn above them, and more and more practical for various occasions, the undergarments seem to have reached their zenith in charm and originality.

Bloomers are Preferred

There are garments for all occasions as has been said and there are garments to suit the tastes and purses of all women. There are those who prefer the bloomer to the petticoat, and here are bloomers designed to take the place of the garment that for centuries has been considered almost a necessary part of the feminine wardrobe. These bloomers are made of silk and crepes, trimmed with ruffles in the self material of lace, or georgette, sometimes caught here and there on the more dressy models with tiny bows of picot-edged ribbon or with tiny nosegays of French flowers.

Some of these are knee length and others extend almost to the ankle, or as far as is consistent with the length of the skirt worn over it. Skirts are growing longer and longer so many of the winter models may be shown to the ankle itself.

Bloomers of darker materials are quite practical for street wear under the flare of cloth or silk.

Imported Petticoats Liked

A lady's preference for certain gowns may demand the use of a petticoat and for this have been imported models of different kinds. The more practical ones come in the dark colors of crepe de chine, Italian silk or the soft satins. They are trimmed with hand embroidery, with appliqued designs in contrasting color, which appear on the ground fabrics at the bottom of them. For the dinner dresses and the more dressy occasions are shown imported models of hand embroidery of batiste or silk combined with real lace in panels, in stripes, in medallions, set upon yokes and in sets of tucked net so fashioned that no one could possibly mistake the French creation that designed and made them.

Some of these petticoats are combined with bodices and make charming slips for the summer gown or for the negligee. On the silk models deep hem effects of lace or net often appear at the top and bottom of the slips, into which are run the patterns of the embroidery. Step-ins and night gowns made to complete the sets have the same scheme of trimming carried out on them.

Many Striped Designs

Georgette is popular in the white, in flesh and in many of the other dainty and more vivid shades combined with beds and embroidered or tucked nets, or more simply trimmed with just hemstitching or feather stitching to give a more tailored effect. Added to this form of trimming some of the garments are large embroidered dots and eyelets. Fagoting holds many narrow strips together in the form of yokes and bands that suggest sleeves.

Dainty Simplicity Noted

Pongee has taken a place for itself in the lingerie world and appears in the natural, in white, and in the delicate shades of flesh, light blue, green and orchid. It is used for shirts, chemises, camisoles, nightgowns and pajamas, step-ins and bloomers, and is popular partly because of its smart appearance, and partly because of its durability.

This same idea is delightfully applied to lingerie made of gingham. This material has but recently made its debut into the land of lingerie, but it promises to become a very popular fabric for undergarments. Chemises, nightgowns, step-ins, made of the tiny checked and small plaid patterns shown in the best imported English ginghams make up very successfully in all the light shades. Appliqued designs of plain gingham form the trimming on most of them and the hems are held by hemstitching which trims them at the same time.

Varied Styles Pleasing

Camisoles with vest fronts to take the place of shirtwaists with coat suits are also shown in new variations this season. These are made of combinations of lace and net that is embroidered or tucked, of the land embroidered batiste bands, and sometimes with dotted swiss.

Corsets have undergone more of a change during the past few years than almost any form of apparel, and have grown more supple. They are made of softer materials, of elastic, of suede materials and are made with larger bell lines and flatter hips. Many of them consist of an elastic band made very wide which holds the figure snugly and at the same time comfortably for the athletic woman who needs both freedom of movement and support of surplus flesh.

Longer Brassieres Used

Brassieres are made of nets and laces, of all kinds of satins, sateens, Italian silk, the cotton fabrics both plain and embroidered, and are cut to suit any figure and for all occasions. The corsetless era was a short one and while corsets are back stronger than ever they are more comfortable, more attractive in material, and in the lines they give the figure. Due to them is the success of the outer garment for without a good figure, the best costume made would be an utter failure.

Foreign Service Course

Special training for foreign service is now offered by seventy-one colleges and universities. The University of Washington leads in the number of these students.

Old-time Popularity

After many years of comparative neglect the hubble leech is again coming into its old-time popularity. At one time many leech-farms were maintained to supply the demand.

HOW "COLDS" TRAVEL THROUGH A COMMUNITY

The value of isolation and segregation of victims of "colds" was recently demonstrated during the latter part of last winter in the case of a Long Island community, which at the time was quite effectually separated from other settlements by a snow blockade. A child who had been suffering from a "cold" was allowed to attend a little gathering of a social nature despite its illness. There were fifty-one persons present and in the course of a few days forty of them were seized with the identical symptoms. The child was, it developed afterwards, really too sick to have been allowed to leave its home but because of its disappointment at being unable to attend the function and its persistence in claiming that it was better, it was allowed to go to the affair. It had several severe fits of coughing while at the party and the result was that contamination was spread through the entire party.

Cooking by electricity in a container under pressure is said to be very economical. The current is turned on until the cooking operation starts and then it is contained under low or no current.

When Baby Complains.

THERE ARE MANY WAYS a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Let's Think It Over.

There is such a thing as saying too much on any subject, and the "grand-stand" talker sooner or later becomes a bore. The truth is always welcomed, and the truth reiterated and confirmed is more than welcome—it reaches your innermost soul.

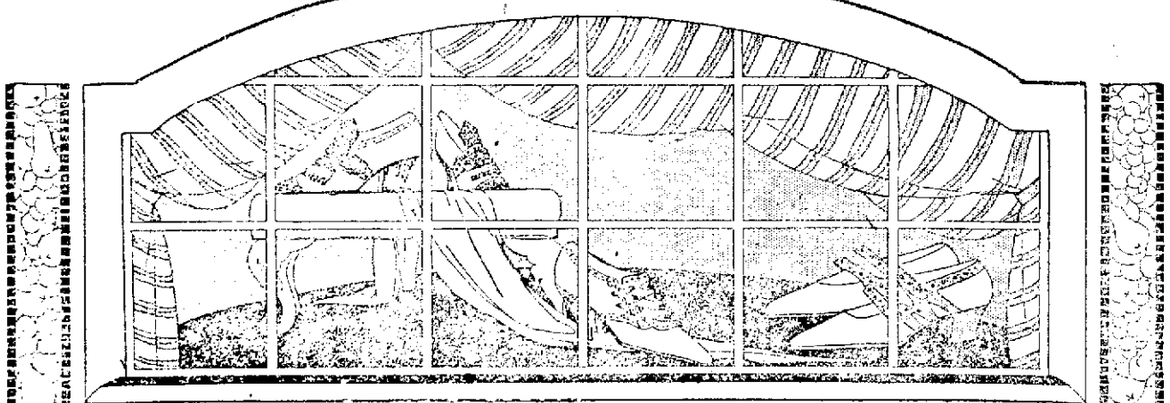

Fletcher's Castoria is all its advertising has claimed for it. Scrutinized by the microscope of public opinion and used for over thirty years it stands without a peer in the hearts of thoughtful, cautious, discerning Mothers. And once used, mother love—there is no substitute for mother love—will scorn to try a "substitute" or a "just-as-good".

Masquerading under many names drugs that are injurious to the tender babe have found their way into some households, but the light of experience soon casts them out. Are they cast out before it is too late?

CHARGES PROFITEERING IN COAL BY ILLINOIS FIRMS DOING BUSINESS IN STATE

MADISON, Wis.—Profiteering is being attempted by Illinois wholesale coal dealers selling to Wisconsin fuel companies, P. H. Pressentin, secretary of the state coal committee, Wednesday wrote Senator I. R. Lenroot and H. B. Spencer, federal fuel distributor. He urged that the interstate commerce commission be asked to refuse cars to coal concerns arbitrarily raising prices.

The action by Mr. Pressentin was taken after receiving advice from a Wisconsin coal company that Illinois wholesalers had offered them coal at a price fifty cents above that previously set, if they would contract for delivery. Reason for the increase was not explained.

"The wholesalers realize that the federal government is about to take some action toward curbing prices asked for coal and they are fortifying themselves by sending out letters urging dealers to sign contracts which will stop the federal government from taking any action from a profiteering standpoint," Mr. Pressentin said.

J. D. Morrisey, Wisconsin representative at Washington, wired Wednesday that 20,000 cars of coal for the lake states are tied up at docks. Thousands of tons of fuel are on the way, he said, for priority distribution.

HEALTH EDUCATION PROGRAM PLANNED BY STATE BOARD

MADISON, Wis.—Northern Wisconsin cities are included in a public health educational program arranged by the state board of health for the coming month. Miss Aimee Zillmer, assistant in education with the board, will present the social hygiene program and the general health theme before girls and young women in normal, county training, nurses' training, high schools and before industrial and social groups.

Beginning at Superior for five days, from September 12 to 16, her itinerary will be as follows: Sept. 16, Bayfield; 19, Washburn; 20, 21 and 22, Ashland and surrounding communities; 25 and 26, Hurley; 27, Mellen; 28, Park Falls; 29 and 30, Phillips; Oct. 2, Rib Lake; 3 and 4, Medford; 5, 6 and 7, Marshfield.

EPIDEMIC OF MUMPS REPORTED IN GENOA JCT

MADISON, Wis.—The first case of an epidemic as a result of opening of the fall term of schools was reported today to the state board of health from Genoa Junction. Several cases of mumps have broken out at that city. The board of health stated that while mumps is not a quarantine disease children so afflicted may not be allowed to continue in school until the swelling has disappeared.

OLD WHISKEY IS FAST DISAPPEARING SAYS WHOLESALER

Six, seven and eight-year-old medicinal whisky is soon to be a thing of the past and most of the prescriptions are now filled from 1917 stock, according to a large wholesaler.

The government is considering establishing central warehouses and pooling all available supplies in two centers in Pennsylvania and Kentucky, he reported.

James A. Stone, federal prohibition director, is in receipt of a letter from Washington, which prohibits the acceptance of a doctor's prescription by a druggist far removed by distance, even though both be residents of the same state.

MRS. KADING AT MADISON

MADISON, Wis.—Mrs. Charles A. Kading, Watertown, who is a member of the state civil service commission has removed her residence to the Capitol City for the winter months. Mrs. Kading will establish her residence here while her son, Charles, is in the University. Mrs. Kading is a well-known lawyer, being in partnership with her husband at Watertown. She was appointed as the Democratic member of the civil service commission by Gov. Blaine a year ago.

NEW SLANT FOR ETERNAL TRIANGLE IN "THE STORM"

Picture Version of Noted Stage Play Opens Sunday at Rivoli

Something new in eternal triangle situations is revealed in "The Storm," which opens at the Rivoli theater next Sunday. It will be recalled that the stage version of Langdon McCormick's play took New York off its feet, and was wildly acclaimed as one of the dramatic events of a decade.

"The Storm" is a story of two men and a woman snowbound in the fastness of far north mountains for four months. One of the men hates women because he had never met any. He greets the girl's arrival with open fear. The other knows the sex from stores of affairs in London. He has hidden himself away in the mountains to escape all women. But within a week both men decide this particular girl is the most desirable person in the world.

Out of this strange triangular situation emerges the primitive passions of the trio. The sweetness of the woman's nature is unable to overcome the hatred the one time friends feel for each other.

The picture was made under the direction of Reginald Barker, producer of "The Old Nest" and other famous successes.

CROP REPORT

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Wisconsin for the week ending Tuesday, September 12:

Hot and dry weather first half of week, latter half cool with generous rains over the greater part of the state. Corn deteriorated somewhat by heat and drought. The crop is about half cut and silo filling is well advanced. The heat hastened ripening. Threshing is nearly completed in the north. Clover hulling is progressing. Meadows and pastures were revived somewhat by rains. Stock feeding is general in southern counties. Late potatoes are generally in good to excellent condition. The ground has been softened and is in good condition for fall plowing. Some seeding of rye and winter wheat is in progress. Tobacco cutting is progressing slowly; the early cut has been housed and is practically cured. Truck, fruits and sugar beets are good to excellent. Cranberry harvest is well advanced. Bogs were flooded during the cold weather on the night of the 10th and very little damage resulted to the crop.

NELSONS WIN BENEFIT EXHIBITION FROM LANSING AGGREGATION

BOB FITZKE HURLS IN EXCELLENT FORM TUESDAY, SCORE, 5-1

Local Hurler Allows But Four Scattered Hits; Locals Collect Eight

SCHAEFER FURNISHES THRILLS; GETS HOMER WITH ONE ON

Erickson Has One Bad Inning to Allow Five Scores

The Nelson baseball club with Bob Fitzke pitching a pretty game won the benefit exhibition from Lansing Tuesday afternoon by a score of 5 to 1. A fair sized crowd witnessed the contest.

The pitching of Bobby Fitzke was a pleasing revelation to fans. With the exception of the second inning, in which a triple and a sacrifice gave the visitors their only score, Bobby pitched shutout ball. Four hits, the total chalked up against him, two in the second, one in the third and one in the sixth inning. It was after the third session that fans saw the change in Bobby's work and one scratch by Oswald, a fly ball which Klandrud had his hands on but missed, was the only hit that attempted the likes of a hit during the remainder of the game.

Schaefer Gets Homer

Larry Schaefer furnished two thrills for the spectators. When in the third inning he pulled out a drive for the entire circuit accounting for two of the locals scores by chasing Wolf in ahead of him. Larry was going at top speed when he passed third and Satek sent him in safely. His second sensation marked the windup of the game. He shifted back quickly to pick Oster's short fly out of the air back of second base. Cully, also, had his basket working in fine shape.

Erickson, pitching for the visitors, while steady and more effective in the first two innings became more erratic at intervals as the game progressed while his opponent became stronger. However, the third was his lone bad inning, his support saving additional runs several times.

Five Scores in Third

Four hits, including Schaefer's homer, and a walk, was responsible for the locals five scores. The hurlers broke about even on strikeouts, Fitzke getting eight and Erickson 7. The visiting hurler passed three to Fitzke's one.

The visitors netted a double play in the fourth inning. Fitzke was safe on an error and Shields hit into a double, Walters to E. Spinner to Brown.

BADGERS RECEIVE FIRST GOOD NEWS AS ELIGIBILITY OF BARR MAY BE CERTAIN

Favorable Reports Received from Three of Quarterback's Doubtful Subjects; Will Simplify Richards' Problem

BY BOB DUNN.

It looks as though Shorty Barr, Wisconsin's best bet for the quarterback's job, will be eligible again this year to caser on the sward.

According to Tom Jones, director of athletics, reports have been received on three of the four doubtful subjects which had a bearing on Barr's eligibility. The reports on the three subjects are all favorable and there is every reason to believe that a similar report will be received from the faculty on the remaining doubtful study.

While Barr's eligibility is therefore not absolutely certain, the coaches are confident enough to start banking on his good standing.

First Good News

The favorable record apparently made by Barr in his summer school work will simplify the Badger's football problem considerably. Barr's final eligibility, if it materializes as anticipated, will be the first good news, in fact, that has entered the Wisconsin camp since the spring practice.

The worst blows to date have been the definite announcements that neither Holmes, ineligible, nor Kibo Brumm, injured recently, would be able to play.

If Barr becomes eligible, Coach Richards' problem will boil down to a problem of building up the center of his line and the chief mentor being a line specialist, this should not be an insurmountable problem although there appears to be a dearth of material for the jobs on the center of the forward wall.

Gus Tebell and Polaski will probably be the wingmen who will carry the brunt of the fall work on the ends of the line. And Tebell, with his thorough experience at the game, should develop this year into one of the leading ends in the west.

Williams Primed

Report has it that Captain Rollie Williams is primed after a summer of intensive training for his biggest year at the fall pastime. Williams returns with his former high school teammate, Ellingson, brawny lineman who will undoubtedly be used by Richards as one of his mainstays in the rebuilt machine.

Harris, who will be remembered by local basketball fans as the shining light on the Racine high school team that performed here in the state tournament two years ago, will be offering a big bid for the full back's job although Crozier will put up a powerful argument to take the shoes he filled last year when ex-Captain Sundt was on the bench.

As far as the center of the line is concerned, Richards will have to concentrate on new material and just what men will be developed for the berths will depend largely by the showings made by raw material in the early workouts. Pearse, son of President Pearse of the Milwaukee normal, was at the center's post on last year's yearling aggregation and will be one of the contenders for the job when the candidates get together for the first time on Friday.

Coach John R. Richards was scheduled to arrive in Madison on Tuesday. A meeting of coaches and athletic directors of the Big Ten institutions is being held today at Chicago, however, and it is expected that the Badger mentor stopped off to attend this meeting. Coaches Jones and Meanwell of Wisconsin have gone to the get-together.

GLOOM SETTLES OVER FANS AS SISLER IS OUT

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—By the Associated Press.—Gloom settled over Sportsman's Park, the local American league stage of fight for the 1922 pennant, when it became known Tuesday that George Sisler, star first baseman and batting champion of the major leagues, was out of the game due to an injury to his right shoulder.

"Our pennant hopes are gone now," was the remark heard at the ball park Tuesday when the news was spread that Sisler would be out at least a week or probably the rest of the season.

PLAYS BALL AS DEVOTEE OF DIAMOND

TOM PHILLIPS

It isn't so much to win the spectators' plaudits that big Tom Phillips of the Washington Americans' pitching staff plays ball for all he's worth. It's rather from pride in excelling in a sport which he loves for itself.

"If Tom doesn't finish the season big," they say of him in Phillipsburg, Pa., whence he came, "it won't be because he hasn't tried with all his honest-to-goodness might."

When Tom was only 7 years old his father took him into the mines, that he might become familar with the inky darkness there, thus early overcoming the terror which seizes most beginners at such work.

When not at work the boy played ball. His prowess as a pitcher was recognized very soon. His services were much in demand, and the money he received for work which to him was a pleasure doubtless encouraged him to try for bigger prizes.

He entered professional ball with the Harrisburg Tri-State League team. He was with Wilkes-Barre in 1915 and with the St. Louis Browns the next year. Also he was with Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, and for awhile with Cleveland. In the Southern League he was with Little Rock for a period and, during 1920 and 1921, with New Orleans. It was at this time that his pitching attracted national attention and brought him his contract with the Washington Americans in 1922.

BROWNS COME FROM BEHIND TO DEFEAT DETROIT, SCORE, 8-6

Sisler, Crack First Baseman, May be Out of Lineup for Remainder of Season

SOX PULL TRIPLE PLAY AS INDIANS COP, 8 TO 2

Cleveland Closes Chicago Season on Tuesday

ST. LOUIS—For the second time in two days St. Louis came from behind in the tail end of the game to defeat Detroit. The locals took Tuesday's game, 8 to 6, after trailing the Tigers up to the seventh inning and advanced to within one game of first place.

Sisler was out of the lineup because of a sprained muscle in his right shoulder, suffered in Monday's game by reaching for a wide throw. He will be out of the game for at least a week and possibly for the remainder of the season, it is said.

The locals used three pitchers, Kolp, Van Gilder and Pruett. The latter relieved Van Gilder in the ninth and struck out Cobb after Van Gilder had given him three balls. He also struck out Veach.

President Ban Johnson viewed the game from a box. He said his presence here had no significance beyond a desire to see in action one of the teams which may represent the league in the world's series.

Work on temporary boxes was started in the park on Tuesday and they will be completed in time for the three game series with the Yankees, which begins on Saturday. The score:

Detroit .....013 100 001—6
St. Louis .....011 010 23*—8

Batteries—Dauss and Bassler; Kolp, Van Gilder, Pruett and Severeid.

Indians, 8; Sox, 2

CHICAGO—Cleveland closed its Chicago season on Tuesday with an 8 to 2 victory over the locals. The visitors hit Bowles and took a commanding lead. B. Blankenship checked the hitting until the ninth when the Indians again cut loose. Chicago was unable to do much with the offerings of Uhle, who tightened up in the pinches.

The feature of the game was a triple play by Chicago in the first inning. With the bases filled, Gardner grounded to Collins, whose toss to Johnson forced McNulty at second. Johnson's throw to Sheely doubled Gardner, and when Wamby tried to score Sheely's throw to Yaryan retired Wamby for the third out. Jamieson, who was on third when Gardner hit, scored. The score:

Cleveland .....105 000 002—8
Chicago .....000 110 000—2

Batteries—Uhle and Sewell; Duff, Bowles, Blankenship and Yaryan, Graham, Long.

BIG 10 OFFICIALS IN CONFAB TODAY

CHICAGO, Ill.—Arrangements of the Big Ten basketball schedule and uniform interpretations of the 1922 football code were important objects of the meeting of athletic directors, basketball coaches and gridiron officials of the western conference here Wednesday.

WITH THE MAJOR LEAGUES

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Manager Gleason of the White Sox tried out three rookie pitchers, Cecil Duff, Ernest Bowles and Homer Blankenship against Cleveland, but they appeared ro be to the Indians' liking. Speaker's tribe clouted the new-comers for 17 hits, every Indian getting one or more hits.

The White Sox fans were treated with a triple killing at the expense of the Cleveland Indians, the play being executed, Collins to Johnson to Sheeley to Yaryan.

The White Sox' catching staff was given another blow, when "Yam" Yaryan, second string catcher, had his finger split by a foul tip off Wood's bat. Ray Schalk, star receiver, has been out of the game for several days because of an injury to his hand.

Haney and Foster, third sackers of Detroit and St. Louis respectively, had perfect averages, the former getting four hits in as many times at bat, and the latter gathering three blows in three times up.

Hooray! Boys! Series Confab Is On Tonight

They're off!

The first official confab of the Nelson and Montague team managements is scheduled to be held at the Montague factory offices tonight.

It is expected that a settlement of dates and many details regarding the city series may be announced as a result of the meeting.

DAHL'S FORDS WIN DOUBLE-HEADER ON SUNDAY, 10-0; 6-1

News Co. Beaten in League Game Sunday Morning; Mindoro Trounced in P. M.

The Dahl's Fords kept up the winning streak on Sunday by winning two games, defeating the La Crosse News company in a league game at Hixon field in the morning, 10 to 0, and trouncing Mindoro in the afternoon, 6 to 1.

In the morning game, the Dahl's tapped Newman for 12 hits, while Wiltinger allowed but 3. The contest at Mindoro was a hard-fought pitchers' battle until the eighth when the locals broke through and connected for four scores which gave them a good lead. The Fords scored two in the first inning and Mindoro one in the third. This score remained until the eighth.

R. Roberts, hurling for Mindoro, was relieved on the mound in the eighth by his brother, D. Roberts.

The Fords contemplate answering the Rivoli's challenge within a short time, it was announced.

"Rudi" Kroesmer is out of the game presently because of an injury to his hip, which occurred on Labor day, when he hurled for the Reimans against the Rivoli theater team. "Rudi" has pulled a Charley Robertson stunt this season, pitching a no-hit, no-run game. His injury may keep him out of the game for the remainder of the season.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK—The upward swing of prices was resumed in Wednesday's stock market, equipments, low priced oils and specialties leading the advance. New high records for the year were made in the first few minutes of trading by Baldwin, American Locomotive, Pressed Steel Car, Iron Products and American Water Works six per cent preferred, the gains ranging from fractions to three points. Other strong spots were New York Air Brake and Hartman Corporation, which were up two points, and Colorado Fuel and Iron, Tobacco Products, Norfolk and Western, Studebaker and Mexican Petroleum, all of which had mounted at least a point over Sunday night's close. Allied Chemical was the only conspicuous weak spot declining a point.

Speculative selling of Erie issues frightened some of the holders of other low priced and investment rails, resulting in a reactionary trend in several stocks of that group. Erie common was down 1¼ and the preferred 2½, while St. Paul, Reading, Atlantic Coast Line and New Haven dropped one to one and one-half points. There was no curtailment, however, of investment and speculative buying in the rest of the list. The early turn-over gave promise of another day in excess of one million shares. Public utilities, oils, equipments, tobaccos and leathers were most in demand, including Davison Chemical, Iron Products, American Sumatra and Central Leather preferred, all at gains in excess of two points. Call money opened at 4 per cent.

Indications that buying power had largely spent itself encouraged bear pressure and active profit-taking in the final hour which depressed many stocks from one to four points below their earlier top figures. A subsequent marking up of Atchison, some of the domestic oils and a few specialties, resulted in a confused movement. The close was irregular, sales 1,106,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat moved upward in price Wednesday during early dealings, the chief factor being an advance in Liverpool quotations despite declines Tuesday on this side of the Atlantic. Good export buying here Tuesday ended also to encourage bullish sentiment and so, too, did smallness of receipts at winter wheat points. The opening, which varied from unchanged to ⅛c higher, December $1.01¼ to ⅜ and May $1.06¼ to ⅜, was followed by slight gains all around.

Estimates were current that exporters had taken 2,000,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat in the last few days, an amount much larger than was heretofore generally supposed. Buying of future deliveries, however, gave out just before the close.

Corn reflected the wheat advance. After opening a shade to ⅛c up December 56⅜ to ½c, the market sagged somewhat but then made a general upturn.

Later the market receded as a result of sales to go to store here. The close was easy, a shade net lower to ⅛c advance with December 56⅝c.

Oats started a shade off to a like advance, December 34⅛ to ¼c and later showed a rise for all deliveries.

Provisions were firm in line with hogs and grain.

"SHELL SHOCK" NO LONGER RECOGNIZED IN GREAT BRITAIN

"War Neurosis" is Term Applied; Term "Shell Shock" Declared Misleading

LONDON.—If Great Britain should have the misfortune to be engaged in another big war, it is safe to predict that no cases of "shell shock" will appear among her list of casualties. The first recommendation of the War Office committee on Shell Shock whose report has just been published, is that the term should be cut out of the official language.

"War Neurosis" is considered to be the best general term. "Shell Shock" is declared to be wholly misleading, because it occurred to patients who had never been even within hearing of a shell burst.

"It is no surprise to find that the general lay conception of the term was very loose and ill-informed, the committee stated. "There was such anxious solitude during the war as to the incapacitated, and such was the appeal of the term "shell shock," that this class of case excited more general interest and sympathy than any other, so that it became a most desirable complaint from which to suffer.

"No case of psycho-neurosis, or of mental breakdown, even when attributed to a shell explosion, should be classified as a battle casualty and more than sickness or disease.

"In many cases," say the committee, "it is extremely difficult to distinguish cowardice from neurosis, since in both fear is the chief casual factor."

Colonel Stubbs, D. S. O. expressed the opinion that efforts should be made to get rid of the idea especially prevalent among young soldiers, that it was disgraceful to feel scared when in action.

"I do not know, but I think I was in an awful funk the whole time," he told the committee, "and I think most people were. If the young soldier were given to understand that everybody is very much afraid and that it is a natural condition to be in, but he should overcome it, and if he were told also about the effect of shells and that it was up to him to control himself, I think it would have some effect."

Only a brave man will voluntarily acknowledge that he was very much frightened during the war.

THE SALARY OF M. P.'S

The salary of an M. P. is 400 pounds (nominally $2,000) a year, on which he has hitherto paid income tax. As an income this is inadequate, but in the days of anti-waste campaigns both ministry and house of commons shrink from increasing it. But the low officers of the crown suddenly discovered that an M. P.'s expenses may legitimately be reckoned against his income, so that the poorer of them will now pay no tax at all. A happy issue, relieving the poor M. P., endearing the government to his grateful heart and throwing no odium on parliament ministry, since it seems that this is the ordinary law and always was, although no one suspected it till a few weeks ago.—New Republic.

Bible Copies in New Script

The American Bible society is preparing during the present year to bring out some 2,000,000 copies of the scriptures written largely in the new national phonetic script of China.

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Odds and Ends of State Affairs by William J. Anderson

MADISON, Wis.—It is not improbable that an independent ticket may be put in the field against the La Follette ticket this fall. So far as it is possible to analyze the vote at this time it is plain that it was the stay-at-home vote that permitted the radicals to secure such majorities. All things considered, La Follette never had a better organized campaign than the one just closed. It is safe to say that the cost of victory was greater than was ever spent before in a campaign in Wisconsin. Two years ago, the Nonpartisan league was reputed to have spent over two hundred thousand dollars to elect Blaine governor, but the group aggregate of expense for this campaign was much greater for advertising and organization work.

The biggest part of this expenditure need not be reported under the present law, as much of it was assembled outside of legally recognized political organizations. Attorney General Morgan attempted to get the law amended by the last legislature so as to require all organizations which contributed money to make a report, but his efforts were defeated. But, without formal reports, enough is known to justify the statement of Mr. Morgan in one of his campaign speeches that when it comes to spending money in a political campaign the radicals of Wisconsin make the Michigan senator of moneyed fame look like a "piker."

* * * *

It is believed by many that a strong fusion state ticket could give the present nominees a hard battle. It is argued that the stay-at-home vote in this last campaign, which is the outstanding fact in the campaign, cannot be counted a radical vote. The latter was aggressive and active and fully made itself felt. An independent ticket, therefore, that would appeal to the stay-at-homes might easily upset the result of the primary. The feeling is strong that the grouping of the socialists and dissatisfied labor element with the Nonpartisan league which won the primary grossly misrepresents the real sentiments in Wisconsin, and that some means should be taken to correct the false impression produced.

* * * *

The year 1922 to date has been a successful one for Wisconsin farmers with regard to crop production, states Joseph A. Becker of the crop reporting service at Madison. Of the three crops which are the feeding basis of Wisconsin dairy farm operation, two—hay and oats—have been harvested in quantities greatly exceeding the average production; the other—corn—at present gives promise of a slightly above average crop. Just now the crop is in need of rain and is late, but timely rains and a late fall may yet insure an ample crop both of silage and ear corn. Small grains other than oats produced large crops. Of the cash crops, potatoes and cabbage bid fair to break records in production. Tobacco production will be light because of a greatly decreased acreage. Canning peas produced an immense crop with a good per acre return. There will also be a good sized crop of onions, sugar beets, clover seed, cranberries and apples.

Pinon Nut Sheller

The pinon nut of the southwest is very pleasant and very nourishing but is little known because of the difficulty experienced in shelling them. A woman has recently invented a device to do this work and they will now be cheaper and more plentiful.

Largest Aerial Camera

The largest aerial camera ever made is in the United States service at a distance of seven miles. It will accurately record an object so small as an automobile passing along the road. To gain such magnification there are three sets of lenses in the new camera.
